Our Latest Coating Made It Rough Going

KINGSTON

It may look a lot like Christmas but the latest white coating of sleet and snow to hit Ulster County snarled travel and dampened shopping plans.

Tuesday's storm added four inches of snow and freezing rain to the close to two feet of snow already on the ground. Travel conditions were hazardous today causing the closing of Rondout Valley Centrals Schools and St. Peter's School in Rosendale.

Last-minute shoppers struggled to complete holiday chores as everybody's schedule was knocked askew by weather conditions. All of the pre-Christmas preparations were slowed by rough walking and driving. Discouraging though it may be more snow is on the way late today with an estimated one- to five-inch additional accumulation.

Kingston Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk today issued an urgent request for residents to shovel, salt and sand slippery sidewalks so that mailmen may make their appointed rounds with holiday mail without undue hazard. Freeman subscribers on motor routes also are requested to clear tubes of snow so that drivers may make delivery of their daily newspaper.

If the weather picture seems a bit bleak at this point, forecasters are saying nice things about Christmas Day. Clear and cold is the outlook.

Reaction to Hanoi POW List

Old Hat to Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration officials say Hanoi's latest list of U.S. prisoners of war is old, incomplete and may be just Christmas propaganda.

This was the initial reaction from high officials to release of the list that names 339 Americans held captive, 20 dead and nine previously released. U.S. officials list 378 held captive.

Meanwhile, in Paris, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong returned to their demand today that the United States agree to withdraw all troops from South Vietnam before next June 30 before any discussions on the release of American war prisoners.

The North Vietnamese offered to help the United States with any difficulties it might have in meeting the deadline.

Last week Xuan Thuy, the chief North Vietnamese delegate, asked the United States to propose any "reasonable date" for a withdrawal.

The United States in effect rejected the proposal, contending that any deadline for a troop pullout would permit the Communists to "sit on their hands" and refuse to negotiate.

North Vietnamese diplomats in Paris gave official weight to the list by handing it over Tuesday to a representative of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and to a staff member of Chairman J.W. Fulbright's Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

It marked the first time official representatives of the U.S. government received such a POW list directly. Thus it made the list the closest thing yet to an official Hanoi accounting of POWs.

But the administration wasn't giving much importance to the North Vietnamese move.

Biggest point of contention was whether the list was complete and final.

U.S. pacifists, through whom Hanoi sent earlier lists, said it was.

But U.S. officials said a quick check showed there was no reason to believe the list was complete and added earlier reports indicate Americans not on the list are held captive by Hanoi.

One new element in the list, however, was inclusion of the dates of death and or capture.

Pacifist leaders of the Committee of Liaison with Families of Servicemen Detained in North Vietnam declared the list has all the names of prisoners the Hanoi government holds.

In Paris, committee spokesman Rennie Davis said, "There are no new names and the North Vietnamese are holding no more prisoners."

The North Vietnamese told him they don't know where missing U.S. servicemen might be, Davis said, adding that they may have been lost when their planes were shot down.

Kennedy told a Washington news conference in announcing release of the list that he didn't know if it was accurate and complete, but added the letter handed his representative, Washington lawyer John E. Nolan Jr., contained a line that said this was the official list of the North Vietnamese.

Nolan returned to the United States Tuesday night, but refused to talk with newsmen.

Nolan took the list to David K.E. Bruce, U.S. negotiator at the Paris peace talks, Kennedy said. The senator passed it on to the White House and Rogers.

David Dellinger, co-chairman of the pacifist committee, said the North Vietnamese picked Kennedy and Fulbright to get the list because they were "men of good will."

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said that

U.S. Copter Crash Kills Six

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. Command today reported the loss of a helicopter and said six Americans died in the crash. The Cambodian Command announced the arrest of the son of deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk on a charge of terrorism.

Military spokesmen said a U.S. Navy UH1 Huey helicopter crashed from "unknown causes" in the Mekong Delta on Saturday more than 125 miles southwest of Saigon.

The command attributed the delay in reporting the crash to the difficulty in locating the wreckage, buried in the delta mud. There were no survivors.

Communiques from Phnom Penh said South Vietnamese paratroopers killed 26 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in fighting early today 10 miles outside Kompong Cham, Cambodia's third largest city. It was the biggest battle reported in the past two days in Indochina.

Senator Goodell, in final anti-Vietnam address, sees perpetual U. S. involvement in Indochina. Story Page 13.

One American was reported killed and two wounded Tuesday in fighting 67 miles northeast of Saigon. The clash involved elements of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division and an unknown-sized Communist unit.

The arrest of Sihanouk's son came after imprisoned terrorists said he had provided money and grenades for terrorist activities. The man arrested was Norodom Ramarith, a former professor at Phnom Penh University of Law. He was the third of Sihanouk's children arrested since the prince was overthrown as Cambodian chief of state last March 18. Prince Sihanouk has established a government in exile in Peking.

As acts of terrorism increased in Phnom Penh, police searched the city for a sniper who shot and wounded a sentry patroling the government's main military headquarters late Tuesday night.

Military police at the scene of the shooting said they suspected the sniper was a Communist terrorist. The shot was believed fired from the window of a nearby three-story building.

"I personally do not think it was a Viet Cong," said Maj. Am Rong, the official Cambodian military spokesman. "A Viet Cong would have done a better job than that."

On Cambodian military fronts, Am Rong said Sre Ambel crossroads on embattled Highway 4 came under attack Tuesday night for the third night in a row.

Brig. Gen. Sosthene Fernandez, commander of the Cambodian 2nd Military District, said he anticipated heavy Communist activities to continue along the highway, closed for more than a month by Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops who have dug trenches across the roadway and erected roadblocks. The highway runs 120 miles from Phnom Penh to the port of Kompong Som.

READING ABOUT IT—Mrs. Joan Vinson (left), national coordinator of the National League of Families of American Prisoners of War and Missing in Southeast Asia, and Mrs. Mary Jane McManus, look at headline telling of the release by Hanoi of the names of 368 prisoners of war to an emissary of Sen. Edward Kennedy. Both women, whose Air Force husbands were shot down in the war, say that the list is not new and that based on information they received from the State and Defense Departments, the list is the same as the one they received some time ago from unofficial sources. A Negative Approach

Fluoridation—Council Ready

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Kingston Common Council will act on a proposal to fluoridate the city water supply at its Jan. 7 regular meeting, but in a negative sense, The Freeman has learned.

Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward), chairman of the Council's Laws and Rules Committee, which has been studying the proposal since August of this year, confirmed reports that his five-man committee will "bring out" fluoridation at the January meeting. "We're working on a negative report," Quick told The Freeman at city hall earlier this week.

The five-man committee includes Quick, John P. Heitzman (D-First Ward), Brian Smith (R-Third Ward), Peter Mancuso (D-12th Ward) and Titus B. Sims (R-13th Ward). Reportedly, Heitzman, Mancuso and Sims are prepared to sign the (negative) report, thus bringing it to the Council floor for action. Heitzman and Mancuso have gone on record as opposed to fluoridation. Sims has not taken a public position, although it is generally believed that he leans in favor of the proposal to fluoridate the city's water supply made by Dr. William J. Taylor, county health commissioner in a letter to the Council in August.

Negative committee reports are extremely rare in the Common Council. In fact, there has only been one other in the past four years, on a minor issue, which city officials do not seem to be able to immediately remember.

The effect of a negative resolution on fluoridation from the Laws and Rules Committee would seem to guarantee that Council action would go no further than voting on the committee report.

Special

A negative committee report on fluoridation might read, in its simplest form, "Your Committee on Laws and Rules has studied the issue of fluoridation and is opposed to fluoridating the city of Kingston's water supply."

An alderman who approves of fluoridating the city's water supply would vote NO on the committee report. Seven "no" votes would be needed for that side to win, thus "killing" the committee report and sending the issue back to committee for further study.

An alderman opposed to fluoridation would vote YES on the negative committee report. Seven votes (a simple majority of the 13 aldermen) would also be needed for that side to carry, thus approving the committee report.

However, by voting in favor of a negative committee report on fluoridation, those aldermen would be agreeing with the committee report that they are opposed to fluoridation in Kingston. Since there is no fluoridation of Kingston's water supply at present, those aldermen voting against fluoridating would, in effect, be voting to maintain the status quo. There would be no need for the Council to then vote on a resolution to maintain the present situation of a non-fluoridated city water supply. In short, there would be no need for any further Council action.

Or as one city official put it in trying to explain the complications of a negative resolution: "Just suppose the issue were to make Broadway a one-way street. Broadway, is of course now a two-way street and always has been.

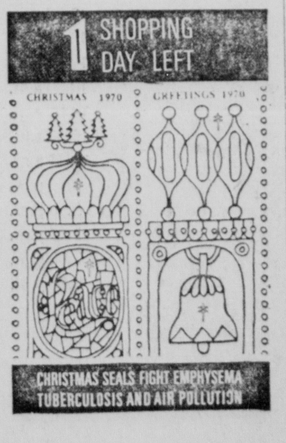

"The committee issues a negative report on the issue: That Broadway should NOT be a one-way street. The negative committee report is approved. There would be no reason to pass legislation making Broadway a two-way street because it already is a two-way street."

There could be other parliamentary procedures. It is expected that there will be a motion to table the (negative) report on fluoridation at the January meeting for further study. A simple majority of seven, with no debate allowed during the voting would be required.

Negative reports can be extremely confusing to the layman (and sometimes, the aldermen) which is exactly what opponents of the negative report claim is being attempted.

Verdict of Death Penalty Returned by Utica Jury

UTICA, N.Y. (UPI) —Martin J. Fitzpatrick, convicted of killing two policemen following a $400 gas station robbery, was sentenced to die in the electric chair early today by an Oneida County Court jury.

The 34-year-old Fitzpatrick is the first man in New York State to face the death penalty in seven years. He was convicted of the murder charges by the same all-male jury last week.

The panel deliberated 13 hours and 45 minutes on whether the former Cub Scout leader should be sentenced to death or life in prison. The verdict came at 2:15 a.m.

Judge John T. Walsh set Sept. 7, 1971 for formal imposition of the sentence, thus giving public defenders time to appeal the case.

Fitzpatrick, a resident of Martville, Cayuga County, sat and held a hand to his chin as the jury foreman read the verdict. He showed no emotion. After verdict, he was returned to Oneida County Jail.

Jury deliberations began Tuesday after a two-day hearing. During the hearing, Fitzpatrick delivered his own summation.

"You as the jury have convicted me of four counts of murder," he said during the hour and 13-minute statement, "and if you believe I am guilty you must vote the death penalty."

In a terse, six-minute summation, Oneida County Dist. Atty. Arthur A. Darrigrand asked for the death penalty.

The district attorney pointed out that a 72-year-old woman clerk at a liquor store testified at Monday's penalty hearing that the 6-foot, 230-pound Fitzpatrick robbed her only three days before the policemen were shot to death.

"You have also had the opportunity to see Fitzpatrick sitting there smirking, laughing and now acting as his own attorney," Darrigrand told the jury. "Have you seen the slightest sign of sorrow or remorse?"

At one point in his summation, Fitzpatrick denied he had killed Sherrill Police Chief Thomas Reilly, 59, and Ptl. Robert Mumford.

"I wasn't the one who pulled the trigger," Fitzpatrick said.

Fitzpatrick said he had only been in court once before in his life, when he was arrested as a teen-ager for speeding. He said he was subjected to an unconstitutional line-up after his arrest for the shooting and was "worked over" by a state police investigator.

Fitzpatrick was convicted last Thursday of fatally shooting the two policemen on Sept. 8, 1969, when he was stopped on Route 5 for questioning about a $400 gas station robbery.

In crimes where the death penalty applies, the jury must decide by unanimous vote on the penalty. Murdering a policeman is one of the few crimes still punishable by death in New York since Aug. 15, 1963, when Eddie Lee Mays died for killing a woman during a Harlem holdup.

The Revised Rates Filed by C-H Firm

KINGSTON — Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation has filed revised electric and gas rates with the Public Service Commission in conformity with the commission's order of Dec. 17.

The revised rates will become effective not later than 30 days after the filing date of Dec. 23. The rates may become effective sooner by order of the commission.

In another development, Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation has filed a petition with the Public Service Commission of the State of New York for authority to issue certain new securities to finance in part its current construction and refunding requirements; and has filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission relating to the proposed issue and sale, subject to Public Service Commission approval, of $8 million principal amount of convertible debentures and 130,000 shares of $100 par value Cumulative Preferred stock.

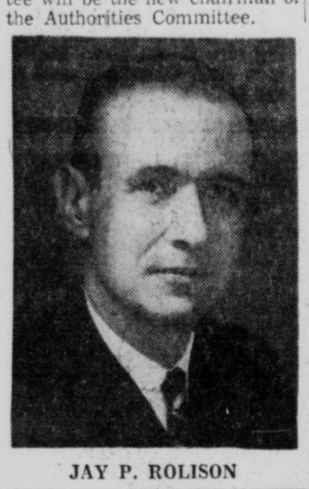

Exact terms and conditions of the offer are yet to be determined. The offering date is tentatively scheduled for the latter part of February.

Rolison Chairman Of New Committee

By LYNN MULVANEY

ALBANY — State Sen. Jay P. Rolison, who represents Ulster and Dutchess Counties, is among 10 New York State senators who have had their committee assignments changed and have been named as chairman of different committees by Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges.

Rolison, who has, in the past served as chairman of the Commerce and Navigation Committee will be the new chairman of the Authorities Committee.

JAY P. ROLISON

As such, his committee will deal with the many state Authorities such as Pure Waters, MTA, New York State Thruway, Bridges and others which he says have been "mushrooming" over the state.

Extremely pleased with the assignment, Rolison told The Freeman he had asked Brydges for it.

Because the Authorities are basically autonomous, the senator explained, people are becoming increasingly concerned over their powers.

Saying he is not attempting to pre-judge the functions of the Authorities, Rolison nevertheless said he is "going to take a good hard look" at them and suggests that in some instances there may be need to rewrite laws concerning them.

Both he and Assemblyman H. Clarke Bell were successful last year in blocking the New York State Pure Waters Authority from allowing the transportation of Westchester County garbage for dumping in Ulster County.

Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn of Newburgh was named to replace Rolison as head of the Commerce anr Navigation Committee.

Significant among the other new appointments was the naming of Sen. Thomas Laverne of Rochester as chairman of the powerful Senate Education Committee for the next two sessions of the Legislature.

Laverne's appointment was among the 10 changes made by Brydges. He succeeds D. Clinton Dominick of Newburgh, who was defeated in the election.

Blame CIA for My Lai

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (UPI)—A defense attorney placed the full blame for the alleged My Lai massacre on the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) Tuesday while military hearings resulted in court martials for two more soldiers in the 1968 assault.

Former Georgia Congressman Charles Weltner, representing Sgt. Esequiel Torres, 22, of Brownsville, Tex., won the right to subpoena three alleged CIA agents.

He also got one of the Mexican-American's four counts of premeditated murder reduced to assault, but Torres and Pvt. Gerald A. Smith, 22, of Chicago, were ordered to stand court martial for allegedly participating in the March 16, 1968 sweep that resulted in death for between 102 and 310 Vietnamese civilians.

Torres was accused of machine gunning to death three civilians and charged with assault in the hanging of a fourth. Smith was charged with the premeditated murder of seven Vietnamese, at least one of them a woman, and of indecent assault upon a Vietnamese woman.

Disclosure of the CIA role at My Lai, said Weltner, would be "very, very valuable, not only in defending Sergeant Torres, but in opening up" how the CIA has operated in Southeast Asia.

A tentative trial date of Feb. 15 was set for Torres and another on Jan. 25 for Smith, who are among six American soldiers including 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr., now on trial, facing trial or have been brought to trial in connection with My Lai.

Only S.Sgt. David Mitchell, 30, St. Francisville, La. has completed his trial. He was acquitted.

Lt. Calley's trial at Ft. Benning, Ga. and a preliminary hearing here to determine if his immediate superior, Capt. Ernest L. Medina, will be brought to trial, are both in recess.

Sgt. Charles E. Hutto, 22, Tullulah, La., and Spec.4 Robert W. T'Souvas, 21, San Jose, Calif., also face trial.

Brooker Family Plans Reunion for Christmas

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

NEW PALTZ — The family of Kenneth N. Brooker, tragically torn apart after their home here was destroyed by fire Sunday morning will be reunited on Christmas Day.

The reunion will take place at the Albany Medical Center where Brooker, 35, a coach in the Wallkill school system, and his wife Gladys, 30, are recuperating from burns they sustained while evacuating their children from the burning house.

The Brooker's four surviving children, Branda 8, Michelle 6, Scott 4 and Kenny Jr., 2, will be given the opportunity to share Christmas Day with their parents as a result of special arrangements between hospital officials and the family's physician, Dr. Herbert Weinman of New Paltz.

The Brooker's eldest son Michael, 11, perished in the blaze, which was reportedly ignited by a short circuit in the family's Christmas tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooker are occupying adjoining rooms in the Burns Treatment Center of the hospital.

According to Dr. Weinman, who treated both at the scene of the fire, Brooker, sustained second-degree burns over 15 per cent of his body and will remain hospitalized from one to four weeks. Mrs. Brooker had second-degree burns over 45 per cent of her body and will spend from one to four months in the hospital.

The children are currently being cared for by Mrs. Oliver Fisher, a neighbor and friend of the Brooker family. Mrs. Fisher says that the children will spend Christmas morning opening presents at her home leaving for the reunion with their parents at noon.

Meanwhile, contributions of food, clothing and financial assistance are still being collected for the family and a special memorial fund has been established in memory of Michael.

Contributions may be sent to the "Brooker Fund" in care of the First National Bank of Highland, Main Street, New Paltz, the Rev. Roy Hassel of the Methodist Parish, 3 Grove Street, New Paltz, and to Mrs. Fisher at 119 North Ohioville Road, New Paltz.

Contributions to the memorial fund may be sent to Mrs. J. Donald Kent, 65 Prospect Street, New Paltz. This fund will be donated to a special school for retarded children in Kingston.

Michael, who was retarded sinch birth, had attended a special school sponsored by Ulster County BOCES.

New Horizons Offers Rehab

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK — New Horizons, a social rehabilitation half-way program for former mental patients, is expanding in the Northern Dutchess County area and there is a need for more volunteers, according to director Mrs. Ian Todd.

There are "quite a few" family care homes in Rhinecliff, said Mrs. Todd to The Freeman, and about 25 people avail themselves of the use of the Rhinebeck Town Hall twice monthly in the New Horizons program.

Starting in January, the Reformed Church in Rhinebeck will be used two nights a month also. "We especially need volunteers for Rhinebeck for these evenings," noted Mrs. Todd.

New Horizons, initiated in 1964 in Poughkeepsie, is funded through Community Chest donations and through state monies, and is sponsored by the Dutchess County Mental Health Society. There are about 65 persons involved in the program in the Poughkeepsie area.

Mrs. Todd explained that many of the ex-patients had been in Hudson River State Hospital for ten to twenty years, and the family care homes were part of the conditioning to society necessary. New Horizons tries to facilitate this re-entry into society by giving these people means for intercommunication through skills and games.

Such things as cooking, sewing, secretarial work, arts, crafts and music are employed along with various group games.

The volunteers needed act primarily in the capacity of host and hostess and can show the community's acceptance of the ex-patients through their interest.

The Cannon Street center in Poughkeepsie is "partly a drop-in center," noted Mrs. Todd where the ex-patient can go if he needs reassurance or job counseling, or where particular problems can be solved.

Mrs. Todd, a minister's wife, did social work in New Jersey before coming to this area. There are only two paid administrators in New Horizons, with a large dependence on community volunteers.

Those interested in joining the social club who would like to provide assistance for neighbors may contact the Volunteer Service Bureau of the Dutchess County Committee for Economic Opportunity at 215 Union Street, Poughkeepsie.

The members are reportedly interested and enthusiastic, but few volunteers have offered their services.

Mull Office Needs Of Service Center

ELLENVILLE — Officials of the anti-poverty agency here are currently mulling over a proposal by the Wawarsing Town Board, which would allow the agency to maintain its community office in the Town Hall here.

The proposal would provide the agency, called the Wawarsing Neighborhood Service Center, with a small, semi-private office on the ground level of the two story building on Canal Street.

Currently the Neighborhood Center, headed by Mrs. Helen Oliver operates from a somewhat larger and more private office in another part of the building. However, Mrs. Oliver must soon abandon this office because the space is needed by the town government.

The "compromise proposal" was put forth at a special meeting last week between the Town Board, Mrs. Oliver, and Lou Grimaldi, executive director of the Ulster County Community Action Committee.

It was made after the board rejected a request by Mrs. Oliver to pay the $125 monthly rental for a facility at another location.

However, Mrs. Oliver said later that ground level office would "not satisfy the center's needs" because of space limitations and a "complete lack of privacy."

Town officials have indicated a readiness to make structural changes in the building, but have not yet made any formal commitments to this effect.

UCAC director Grimaldi feels that an accommodation can be worked out between Mrs. Oliver and the Town Board.

"We're still negotiating the matter," Grimaldi says.

KINGSTON

The Ulster County Young Marines will be in Christmas recess.

According to Gilbert E. Gray, Commanding Officer of the Unit, both companies will discontinue all training activities for the holidays. Company A of Kingston will resume drill sessions Monday, Jan. 4 at the Kate Walton Fieldhouse. Company B in Saugerties will start on Wednesday, Jan. 6 at the Saugerties Junior - Senior High School.

In other Young Marine news, it was announced that the Christmas Wreath sale was an outstanding success. Part of the funds realized will be utilized to liquidate the deficit incurred in the November trip to Washington, D. C. The balance will go toward normal operating expenses and the purchase of some basic camping equipment for future use.

This past week two of the Young Marine Staff were on sick leave from their duties. PFC Jiggs, the Mascot, had surgery for removal of kidney stones. He is recuperating at his barracks at 77 Greenkill Avenue. John Ray Mayone, executive officer, was hospitalized also and will undergo surgery after Jan. 1.

A new recruit platoon will be organized when training resumes. Any boys between the ages of eight and 14 wishing to join the Young Marines should contact headquarters at 77 Greenkill Avenue for an application form.

Plans are in the preliminary stages for conducting observances of two anniversaries in January and February. The entire unit will be completing its third year and Company A in Saugerties its first. Appropriate ceremonies will be conducted.

Basque Militants, Families Mark Yule

MADRID (UPI)—The families and lawyers of 16 Basque militants, some facing possible death sentences, had an early Christmas party today at Burgos Prison.

In San Sebastian, the wife and daughter of West German Consul Eugen Beihl prepared for their Christmas in the growing hope he will be released over the holidays. He was kidnaped Dec. 1 as a hostage.

Defense lawyers drove from Madrid, Barcelona, San Sebastian and other cities to Burgos to visit the clients they defended before a court-martial against charges of murder and other terrorist acts.

Each lawyer took Christmas candy and cookies with him for the defendants, a source among the lawyers said.

The five judges of the court-martial concluded the taking of evidence Dec. 9, and have been considering the verdict since. The court-martial has been out longer than any the defense lawyers said they could remember in Spanish history.

Marlboro Lists Rules For the Snowmobiles

MARLBORO

The Town of Marlboro has joined the growing list of Ulster County municipalities to spell out regulations pertaining to the usage of snowmobiles in the community.

The regulations are outlined in a five point ordinance adopted by the Marlboro Town Board at a recent meeting here.

The ordinance will permit snowmobile driving on the back side of snow embankments on town highways and on parts of two town roads which are not plowed during the winter.

However, the ordinance, which will become effective Jan. 1, specifically prohibits snowmobiles from all other town maintained roads. Snowmobiles are already prohibited by state law from Route 9W which intersects the township.

Marlboro Town Justices Patrick Mataraza and Carle Mower, have advised all snowmobile operators to abide by the newly enacted regulations.

Minor fire, smoke and water damage was reported to the framing of the trailer.

The parking prohibition is between 3 and 7 a.m. If summonses are not answered or ignored reregistration of the motor vehicle will be denied, the chief said.

He asked the cooperation of the motoring public to keep cars off the town roads during the hours specified in the law which was filed in Albany June 22 of this year.

Chief Riley also announced that the town landfill will be closed Friday and Saturday, Dec. 25 and 26 and Jan. 2 and 3 for the holidays. However, the landfill will be opened earlier at 7 a.m. on the Mondays following each holiday period.

Good Car Safety News

As much as we are worried about the two coming three-day holidays and the casualties they will engender, we are happy to find a silver lining to the gloom, small though it is. The first significant drop in traffic fatalities since 1957 was scored this year, according to Douglas W. Toms, director of the Transportation Department's national highway safety bureau.

Auto improvements that contribute to safety are a major cause of this first drop in 13 years in the highway toll, as revealed by government statistics for the first 11 months and projections for this month. They indicate a loss of 55,300 this year, two per cent less than 1969, a drop of 1,100 in 1970.

Says the government's auto safety chief, Americans are driving more miles each year at higher speeds, but better roads, rougher licensing programs aimed at curbing the alcoholic driver, better driving habits and safer equipment, all contribute to the good news.

Of course, 55,300 lives a year—150 every 24 hours—is nothing to accept complacently. But we have seen we can cut down this terrible toll. Now, let's join Toms in his goal of a seven per cent cut next year—3,900 less lives lost—and maybe we'll get the habit and continue to cut and cut until we achieve a semblance of sanity in our driving. What a wonderful Christmas present that would be.

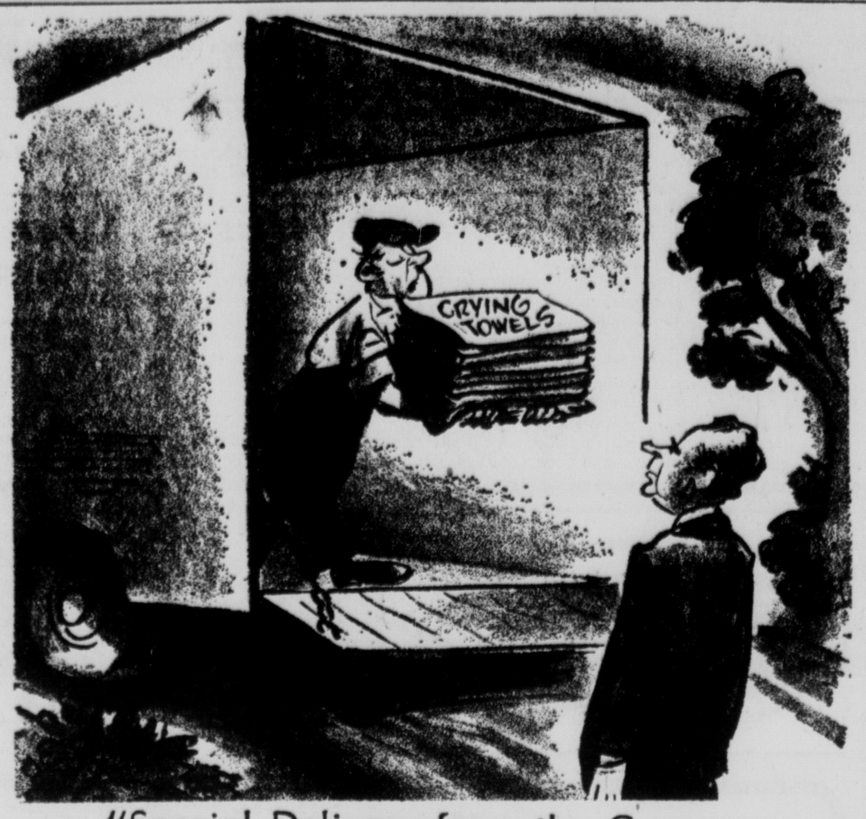

Presidential St. Nick

Anyone who knew William Howard Taft felt the friendliness and overflowing good humor he exuded. It is not strange, then, that one Christmas Eve, just before midnight, when a band of carolers appeared on the White House lawn, Taft should open a second floor window, beam on the singers, and listen happily to their rendition of "O Come, All Ye Faithful."

Taft looked the very image of St. Nicholas himself, in the house gown he wore. He thanked the carolers and wished them a Merry Christmas and a tradition was born. Carolers serenade the White House on Christmas Eve ever since, whether the President is there to greet them, or away as he often is for this family holiday.

The lady who shared President Taft's joy at this unexpected serende is the subject of another White House story. At 16, she was one of the young friends entertained at the White House by Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes at a much earlier Christmas. She enjoyed it so much, she vowed to come back as the wife of a President, and there she was 30-odd years later.

Christmas had a firm place in the lives of our ancestors at the turn of this century. Its warm, sentimental joy is still to be found in countless homes across this great land. Remember when Franklin D. Roosevelt read Dickens' Christmas Carol over the radio one Noel? He revived a habit still emulated widely.

Khrushchev Lies About U-2

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

Former Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, in Life magazine's reportage of his claimed memoirs, repeats and perpetuates another lie. This is how false history is created. It should be dutifully corrected.

Khrushchev states that the Francis G. Powers U-2 spy plane incident (May 1, 1960) gave Kremlin leaders "who felt America had imperialistic intentions the evidence they needed," undercut Khrushchev's ability "to overcome that feeling," and caused the withdrawal of President Eisenhower's invitation to visit the U.S.S.R.

Hokus, hokey, hokum.

CIA agents have penetrated a Soviet government printing plant in Moscow. It was running an enormous quantity of elaborate magazines celebrating President Eisenhower's forthcoming visit to Russia. It featured Khrushchev and Eisenhower together in friendly poses thorughout the United States. In fact, one Camp David photograph was the same as that on page 21 of Life's December 18 issue dealing with Khrushchev.

Two months before the Paris summit meeting with President Eisenhower, which Khrushchev broke up on the pretext of the U-2 spy plane incident, the CIA agents found that this immense magazine run had been stopped. This two-months time interval ultimately became revealing.

The CIA agents in Moscow reported the stoppage in Washington. But the fact was considered merely an oddity, perhaps due to misprintings or other causes. It occurred to no one at the White House, including President Eisenhower, that this revelation was a tip-off that the Kremlin would cancel his Russian visit.

The U-2 incident was not the cause of anything. It was merely a pretext seized upon in the famous Soviet shifts from "soft line" to "hard line" when this suits the Kremlin's own purposes.

For a full two years before Powers was shot down our spy planes had made regular trips across the U.S.S.R. from Turkey to Norway, both ways. One of the spy planes' functions was to discover, and plot, the Soviet radar network and determine its "blind spots."

Powers had a specific, short-term contract with the CIA at a $25,000-a-year rate. The date of May 1 was important because CIA agents had advised their Washington headquarters that the Russians were launching a large missile 260 miles northeast of the Turkish border. Powers was to photograph this.

Each U-2 plane was equipped with a light that flashed red on the pilot's panel whenever a radar impulse struck the plane. This light told that the plane was detected. And now the clincher on the perpetual Soviet lie.

Every single one of the more than 100 U-2 flights across a period of over two years before Powers was shot down reported that it was detected. In short, the Kremlin knew of the U-2 program all that time. There was no more surprise to the Kremlin in the U-2 program than that their own planes surveyed the U.S. Powers' plane was merely the first U-2 the Russians were able to down.

The U-2's normally flew at 70,000 feet. The Soviet antiaircraft fire, geared to their radar equipment, was not effective above 60,000 feet. But when a U-2 reached rarefied altitudes it tended to get a flame-out. Powers glided down from 70,000 feet to try to restart his engines. He fell to around 30,000-40,000 feet and there the Soviet fire could, and did, hit him.

The Kremlin, of course, knew on May 1 that Powers had been shotdown. The leaders actually knew by noon that day, but they debated how best to capitalize on this event for Soviet purposes. Not until May 7 did they say a word to the Russians or the world. Then Khrushchev, a consummate actor, put on his contrived shout of outrage and staged the scheme to break up the Paris summit conference.

Khrushchev's name among Russians is Nikita Sergeyevich. The last time he visited the American Embassy in Moscow as Premier he arrived on Cloud Nine. His frontal elevation gave the impression of a large, square kite about to float away into the sky on the fumes of Scotch whisky.

He trundled the American officials' children on his knee, and squirted peace-loving platitudes through his teeth. Able U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson tried to bring him around to the truth about the U-2 charade, but Khrushchev merely attached a sly wink to the clink of their glasses.

Crusaders Blast Ford Co. For Safe Child Seat Shortage

WASHINGTON — Ford Motor Company developed a dramatic new child safety seat, one of its "better ideas," back in 1967. But unhappily, while 1,000 tots die and 30,000 are maimed in auto disasters each year, the seat is virtually unavailable to the public.

The "Tot-Guard" was unveiled with breathless publicity on Oct. 4, 1967. For a change, all the glowing claims were true; the seat was an extraordinary child-saver.

"Full production is expected to be reached by the end of November," crowed Ford.

Now three years have passed. Surveys in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Washington, D.C., and Washington State — all taken within recent months — show less than one Ford dealer in six stocks the seat. In some cities, no dealers at all carry it. The nation's capital, where the seat is available at four dealers out of 23, has the best record.

The surveys have been conducted by Prof. John Banzhaf's law students at George Washington University. These young consumer crusaders, who call themselves INFANTS (Interested Future Attorneys Negotiating for Tot Safety), consulted with my associate Les Whitten. He advised them to get affidavits, which they have been quietly collecting.

We also made an informal survey of our own. Whitten checked, for example, with Shelton Ford of Bethesda, Md., whose reply was typical: "We've had 12 ordered since July, all paid for by our customers, and three seats came."

Furious at Ford

Banzhaf's law students were so infuriated by their findings that they wrote Henry Ford II, threatening Ford Motor Company with a lawsuit "We see the Tot-Guard's apparent scarcity as unconscionable," wrote INFANTS chairman Hualai Mullins to the Ford chairman. "Of what use is a 'Better Idea' unimplemented?"

She pointed out that "vinyl roof covering, louvers and racing trim" were readily available at Ford dealers, but not "this simple, inexpensive, life-saving device." In fact the super-powered motors that cause infants' deaths get faster delivery than do the seats that might save small children from being hurled against windshields.

Ford Motor, in answer to our inquiries, state: "The sudden increase in demand created a back-order situation." The delay for the seats is down to "two-three weeks at present," contended the company. This differs from our findings, which indicate a wait of one to four months for a safety seat.

Ford also said a second shift has been put to work to handle the orders which have climbed from 140 to 900 a month. Meanwhile, the five-man INFANTS team will charge Ford with illegal "bait and switch" tactics unless Henry Ford II can ensure faster distribution within a month.

Washington Expose

El Paso Pressure — The suave lobbyists, lawyers and officials of El Paso Natural Gas are applying political pressure to get Congress to overturn a Supreme Court decision barring a competition-killing merger. The heat is on Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., one of the consumers' best friends on the gigantic utility firm. The pressure on Magnuson is coming from his home state where El Paso has been successful in enlisting the aid of some leading citizens and groups.

Missiles for Hanoi — Hanoi's rulers, eager to make good their threat to shoot down any American plane that flies over North Vietnam, have begged the Soviets for deadly SAM-3 anti-aircraft missiles. Russia has already supplied Egypt with SAM-3 missiles to bolster its anti-aircraft defenses against Israel. But so far, the Soviets have turned down Hanoi.

Bugging the President — When the President visits foreign lands, White House electronic experts take elaborate precautions to clear his conference rooms of listening devices. The worst place they have encountered is Malaysia. They found the presidential accommodations so thoroughly bugged that they advised then-President Johnson that the only safe place to talk was in the White House limousine, which had been flown ahead to Malaysia.

Political Potpourri — Transportation Secretary John Volpe, whose health has been bad, has spoken to friends about resigning from the cabinet....President Nixon has given no hint to George Romney, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, that his resignation will be requested....The President will establish a foreign economic council to coordinate foreign economics policy, which is now patched together by 12 separate cabinet committees, not to mention another dozen subcabinet committee. . .Liberal House Democrats will make another attempt next year to strip all Mississippi Congressmen of their seniority....Defeated Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., won't be welcomed into the Democratic Party because he refused to pull out of the New York Senate race despite polls showing this was the only way Democrat Dick Ottinger could win. Democrats feel Goodell, who was too liberal for the White House, is too Republican for them.

Marijuana May Cripple Psyche

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, (NEA) — Special attention should be given to testimony on marijuana given this fall before a special subcommittee of the House of Representatives by Dr. Sherman N. Kieffer, M.D., associate director for patient care at the National Institute of Mental Health.

This testimony seems to suggest that use of marijuana by some young people under some circumstances can result in lasting psychological damage.

What Kieffer says in part is that it is natural, normal and necessary for a teen-ager to face and learn to solve a seemingly endless series of problems in the years between 13 and 19.

If he does not go through this process (agonizing to most teen-agers and their parents), he does not grow up.

He may therefore not be able to meet the normal problems and crises adults must cope with — the setbacks and sorrows of life which usually are interspersed with successes and other pleasures.

Kieffer suggests that if a young man (or woman) regularly uses marijuana to sidestep these mental struggles, he can quite possibly grow up to be a psychological cripple.

But read Kieffer's own words on marijuana for yourself and come to your own conclusions. Kieffer, in his position, presumably has access to the latest research reported.

"...since the drug appears to attract some youngsters who already have emotional problems, it may aggravate those conditions, while removing the youngster from normally accepted processes of personal growth.

"One needs to be particularly concerned about the potential effect of a reality-distorting agent on the future psychological development of the adolescent user.

"We know that normal adolescence is a time of great psychological turmoil. Patterns of coping with reality developed during the teen-age period are significant in determining adult behavior.

"Persistent use of an agent which serves to ward off reality during this critical development period is likely to compromise seriously the future ability of the individual to make an adequate adjustment to a complex society.

"Despite the need for more information on adverse effects, there is reason to believe that the marijuana user is taking a significantly increased risk of either acute or chornic psychological damage.

"Though the incidence of serious reaction appears to be low, by definition, as the number of users increases the total number of those experiencing adverse reactions will rise....

"Those users who already have significant psychiatric problems might readily be led to avoid obtaining necessary psychiatric treatment by this form of self-medication, only to wind up as one of the 10 per cent of users whose entire life becomes absorbed in the rug culture...."

As one government pharmacologist in the field puts it, "It's like playing Russian roulette."

Nixon—Governors Rift Not So Wide

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (NEA) — The surface and below-surface grumblings of some Republican governors over the Nixon-Agnew performance in Washington and on the road in 1970 have drawn some people off the track.

The separation of the governors from the President is not all that wide.

First off, the situation was fuzzed up at the outset of GOP governors' meeting here by the not-too-significant gripes of some angry lame ducks and by the predictably quotable blasts of that perennial bomb-thrower, the very engaging Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon.

You have to sift out that shrapnel. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York sought to put the lame ducks' mutterings in perspective: "I can't see anything in it but some self-gratification. They're a bunch of sore boys."

Now, of course, the defeated governors and the unfettered virtuosity of McCall were not the sole fount of complaints. Many of the continuing governors sang their sad little choruses of dismay at Vice President Agnew's "divisive" tactics and "name-calling" and the President's alleged negativism across a broad front.

Yet the responsible governors who have the chance to be lead dogs between now and the 1972 presidential race are not thinking of making a federal case out of their unhappiness. Nor are they so unrealistic as to imagine they can separate their own fates, seemingly secure in most instances until their terms expire in 1974, from what happens in 1972 to Nixon and their party.

You could say that their clear decision here not to throw bombs is typical GOP stuff. Republicans never have cared much for the sight of their own blood.

Such observations, however, don't get to the core. Nor do those which depict them as hopelessly disillusioned. Though they didn't like a single word of Nixon's post-election comment demeaning the role of the governors in presidential politics, most I talked to think he didn't really mean it; that it was an unwise emotional burst ticked off by this fall's 12 GOP gubernatorial defeats.

Gov. Daniel Evans of Washington commented to me:

"The President several times has told me in recent years that having more Republican governors was the difference between his '68 victory and his 1960 defeat."

Moreover, beyond their natural bent against blood-letting in the family, all but maybe McCall see no sense at this hard turn in GOP history in placing themselves in public adversary posture with Nixon.

"They don't want to rip up the thing," said a veteran GOP analyst.

The "thing" is the Nixon administration. Notwithstanding their public fussing over negativism, divisiveness and lack of leadership, the key Republican governors generally will tell you they like much the President has done — winding down the war, offering new welfare proposals, urging at least a start on revenue-sharing.

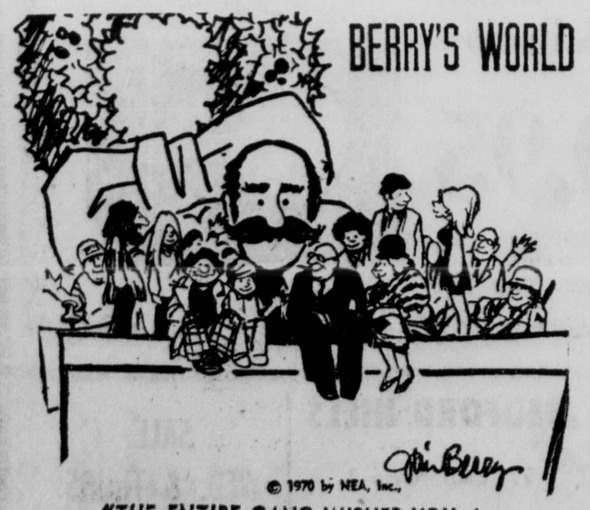

What men like Evans, Milliken of Michigan, Sargent of Massachusetts, Ray of Iowa, Love of Colorado, Rockefeller, Holton of Virginia say they want is positive stress on these matters and many more constructive programs and utterances aimed at solving problems and enlarging and strengthening the party's shaky hold on a bare plurality of the American electorate.

A Christmas Greeting

Occasionally, a Christmas greeting shows such originality and inventiveness, it should be shared. One such greeting that came our way also can be enlarged upon by the receiver, if he has a creative bent. We offer this example:

"May your press never fail (for newspaper publishers). May your refrigerator always be in working order and filled with good things . . . May your investments pay you bigger and bigger dividends and may your stock all reach new highs . . . May you shoot par golf and catch your limit of fish, and may you never chill your feet in a duck blind . . . May your car never stall and may your tires be blow-out-proof . . . May your TV set never blow a tube and your radio bring only news of Peace on Earth . . . But above all, may the Joys and Blessings of this Holiday Season be with you and yours throughout the coming year."

That gives you an idea. Now add your own wishes, or replace some of these or modify them, and you will have a splendid greeting to send to your family and friends.

"THE ENTIRE GANG WISHES YOU A MERRY CHRISTMAS!"

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Nothing reflects your personality more accurately than your driving. It is simple to watch the cars around you and pick out the egocentrics from the "crazies," and to differentiate between those and the timid mice. The only driver difficult to detect sits behind those high-beam lights coming your way with a full tank of gas and a full belly of alcohol.

He's the deep dark secret on the road until he starts crossing into your lane and you find no place to hide. In one heart-stopping moment of panic, he brings to you eternal rest. If he lives; he's contrite and he wishes to God he could bring you back to life. The embalmers wish to God they could put you together so that you're fit to look at.

The biggest problem in driving on American roads is to convince you — and I mean all of you, including me — that it can happen. Like the soldier in battle, we are convinced that death can occur to a buddy, but not to us. The buddy has the same thought.

A man who has an argument with his wife should not get behind the wheel of a car. He will revenge himself on other drivers. A woman who is emotionally upset should remain in the house because she will drive while resolving her conflict and her mind will be anywhere but on the road. A young man who feels inadequate cannot bring himself to full masculinity by using a heavy foot on an accelerator. It doesn't work.

Old ladies and elderly men are crochety. The world has passed them by. They use the high speed lane to loaf at 35 miles per hour. No amount of horn blowing or light-blinking will move them into a slower lane. They know their rights but they don't understand youngsters who will tailgate them bumper to bumper. Sudden death surprises the old lady who "shows" the boy behind by putting her brakes on.

No one — even the high-speed racing driver at Indianapolis — is a faultless driver. Everyone has built-in weaknesses. Even the policeman who chases a malefactor at 90 m.p.h., threading through 70 m.p.h. traffic is a nut at large. The pinch is more important than his family.

This is the season to be extra careful. Many non-drinkers are loaded with good spirits. As my father used to say, people who never died before are going to die this week. It was a funny that wasn't so funny. The Safety Councils (New Jersey has one of the most sophisticated in James Hughes and the manuals he writes) stress "defensive driving" which translated, means "watch the other guy."

It isn't enough. We kill 55,000 people each year. Most of it is subconscious murder. Most of our guilty drivers should not be sentenced to jail. They should be forced to sit in the emergency room of the local hospital from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. on Friday and Saturday nights for one month.

Children are the most difficult to look at. A 10-year-old boy on a bicycle is hit by a car, and dragged by the front bumper for a city block. His face is sandpapered to the bone. His body is broken. His brain has short-circuited the pain in coma. The woman who did it didn't see him in the dark. She needed new glasses. She didn't mean it.

Three teams of surgeons work on the boy. One works on the head. A second team is busy on the torso. A third studies compound fractures of both legs.

An attractive little girl on my street stepped out between parked cars. A driver didn't see her. She's been in a coma for a month, sleeping peacefully, sometimes returning a squeeze of her hand from her parents.

Why? I have been trying to walk up to her parents and tell them how badly I feel, but can they use two more tears. Will anything I say restore their doll to consciousness? No. So I don't go, but that child forces her way into my mind every day. Why? Why? Why?

I have never met a driver who knows the most important factor about an automobile: how many feet will he require to stop his car. If he knew the number of feet he would know how far ahead he must look to anticipate trouble.

The "crazies" are the worst. They usually have low-slung cars with low-slung brains. They are impelled to cut in and out of lanes at tremendous speed. Police cannot alter their thinking. The mind is warped. Cops are not psychologists. The "crazies" require re-education in driving.

Nor am I any paragon of virtue on a highway. You will find me in a white Continental doing 5 m.p.h. faser than whatever is legal. I drive a little faster — which is wrong — but I drive scared. I have not had an accient in 30 years, but, who knows, there may be a nut waiting around the corner this week. If so, he has my number in his head.

Protest Resolution

Editor, The Freeman:

Following is a copy of a "Protest Resolution" which has been forwarded to various state officials, Dr. Neumaier and the Commissioner of Education:

"Be it resolved and made known that the Parish Council of St. Mary of the Snow Roman Catholic Church in formal meeting one November 19th, 1970, consider the 'cartoons' published in the November 12 edition of Oracle 42 (and incidentally financed by the students of New Paltz State Teacher's College) to be a personal affront to all Christian thinking people. The personal attack, degradation and insult to Mary, Joseph and Christ in this latest of a series was, to say the least, in exceptionally poor taste.

"The right to a free press and expression also carries a responsibility to the vast majority of Christian thinking people. The morality decline, so prevalent in today's society is clearly apparent in this series. To allow the series to be published without expressing our concern, disillusionment and personal insult would lower ourselves in our own eyes and in the eyes of Christ and mankind.

"We appeal to the authors, their parents, the administration and students of New Paltz to rectify a sad, sad state of affairs which, in the name of educational expression, perverts the young minds of our future educators, community leaders and parents."

Christmas Tree Poem

Editor, The Freeman:

Too good not to be shared with others, I submit the following poem that my son Daniel thought up the other day, after I had mentioned something about putting our artificial tree up soon. It can be sung singularly or in unison to the tune of "Oh Christmas Tree."

Oh Christmas tree, oh Christmas tree,
Your sections stamped and numbered,
For Christmastime this day you rise,
From those in which you slumbered.
Synthetic needles clustered 'round
Your branches fireproofed and sound,
For lasting greenness no one fears,
You're guaranteed for 60 years.

Happy Holidays,

Youths Have Not Taken Action Against Pollution

"How can an individual stop a billion-dollar corporation from being a polluter?" asked a 28-year-old Texas man, posing a question that is puzzling young people all over the country.

The National Gilbert Youth Poll — a nationwide survey of 3,000 Americans aged 14 to 25— shows that while they are worried about industrial pollution, most youths have not taken any action against it.

Even in a related area where an individual can have more influence — automobile pollution — only 20 per cent of the youths polled said they had taken action to protect the environment against harmful effects of cars. And in three areas of industrial pollution — air, noise and water — the highest percentage of young people who had taken action was 9.4 per cent in the water pollution fight.

Another 12.9 per cent said they planned to take action against industrial water pollution, while 72.1 per cent said they were concerned but weren't going to do anything.

"I know of a law that says I could collect money if I brought an industrial water polluter to court," said one of the "just concerned" group, a 24-year-old man from Rochester, N.Y. "But what is $2,500 to a big conglomerate?"

The response to the air pollution problem is similar. While 8.5 per cent said they had taken action and another 15.5 per cent said they were planning to become involved, 72 per cent were just concerned. And noise pollution has been attacked by only 4.2 per cent, with 11.7 per cent planning action, 58.9 just concerned and 25.2 per cent not concerned at all.

Along with the 20 per cent who had taken action against automobile pollution, another 13.6 per cent were planning to do something, while 59.6 per cent were just concerned.

A University of Michigan coed raised this question about auto pollution: "How concerned can people really be if they keep buying bigger and bigger cars?"

in the past the North Vietnamese have used "rather unusual channels" to convey messages and POW lists. His statement replied to a question why a Kennedy emissary was used to receive the list.

Kennedy and Fulbright wrote Hanoi leaders last June seeking the identity of POWs.

Kennedy said he asked June 23 that President Ton Duc Thang of North Vietnam let prisoners send and receive mail and release ill captives through a neutral nation.

He said he received a telegram signed by Mai Van Bo, head of the North Vietnamese delegation in Paris, saying that Kennedy or his representative would receive a reply from Thang in Paris before Dec. 23.

The Defense Department said "all the names listed have been reported previously through unofficial channels."

"We will continue our efforts in Paris and elsewhere to gain adherence by the other side to provisions of the Geneva Convention for all our prisoners of war held in North Vietnam, South Vietnam and Laos," a statement by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said.

The North Vietnamese issued a statement in Paris saying they have "unswervingly pursued a lenient and humane policy vis-a-vis the U.S. pilots captured in North Vietnam."

But Davis said he felt the North Vietnamese had decided against releasing further prisoners because one who was released claimed he had not been treated properly, something Davis denies.

Dellinger said of the 20 men listed as dead, 15 died of wounds suffered when they were shot down and their deaths came quickly. The other five deaths were attributed to serious illness, he said.

Youths Combine Demonstration, Carols

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Led by four shaggy-haired youths carrying a wooden coffin depicting "the longest trip," thousands of high school students coupled Christmas caroling with a mass candlelight procession against drugs.

Singing Christmas carols and shouting antidrug slogans, the marchers clogged traffic for more than two hours Tuesday night on busy Hollywood Boulevard, then went to a nearby park where a rock concert was staged.

"All this march meant to say was, 'give us a chance,' " said John Costello, "We have a hard drug problem in this area and we must fight it.

"I think we accomplished a lot," added the 18-year-old student at South Broward High.

The march was protested by businessmen who said it would hurt last-minute Christmas shopping. During the march some stores closed, but soon reopened.

"There are drugs everywhere you turn and young people are the easiest victims," said 18-year-old John Ackley. The student at South Broward High said, however, he never touched the stuff.

"I am proud of our young people and I'll back them all the way," said Ann Ignatowicz, who paced the pavement while her son marched.

The assault on drugs was launched at McArthur High, and supporters were enlisted from several other schools in Broward County.

"We don't like the idea of the older people looking after us," said Ken Eisner, an 18-year-old student at McArthur High. "We have decided to handle the problems ourselves, and that's what we are doing tonight."

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

DEAR MRS. POST: I married an older man with many friends his own age. Some of them I had known before and addressed them as Mr. and Mrs. I was reintroduced to them by my new husband on a first-name basis. Was I correct in calling these people by their first names or should I have waited until each person asked me to call them "John" and "Mary"?

This has bothered me for some time, altho I realize it is a bit late to correct.

PENNY

DEAR PENNY: You were perfectly correct. When you entertained his circle of friends by your marriage you are entitled to be treated as one of them in every way — the years make no difference. You surely would have seemed very stiff or self-conscious if you continue to call his friends "Mr. and Mrs." until they happened to realize you were waiting for them to suggest the change.

DEAR MRS. POST: I am planning to be married in 1971. My problems are varied. My parents are divorced and my father has since remarried. My mother and father are on good terms, as I also am with his second wife. I would like to know the proper wording for the invitation as my father is absorbing most of the wedding expenses. Do I include both names or just my mother's, with whom I have always lived? Where would my father and his wife sit in the church? Would my mother and father dance together at the start of the wedding reception? I would appreciate any help you can give me.

DEAR FERN: Since your parents are friendly and are sharing in giving the reception, both names should be on the invitation:

Mrs. (maiden-name or Mary) Smith
and
Mr. and Mrs. John Smith
request the honor of your presence at the marriage of Joan Smith
to etc.

Your mother should set in the first pew, your father and his wife in the second. You and your groom should dance alone first. Then his father should cut in on you and your groom should ask your mother to dance. Your father should dance with his wife, and later with your mother.

To make your wedding day the happy, memorable occasion you want it to be, my booklet, "Your Guide to Formal Wedding Procedure," is just what you need. To get a copy, send 35 cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of the Chicago Tribune, 435 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

CHRISTMAS IS FOR EVERYBODY — Members of Y-Wives recently visited the Infirmary Annex, Golden Hill, to present holiday cakes to the patients. Representing Y-Wives at the holiday presentation was Mrs. Frank DiPietro, right, service chairman, pictured here with nurse, Mrs. Robert McSpirit; and patients Francis Philipp, age 83, and Mary McCorrick, age 90. Santa Claus also made an appearance.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE

DEAR HELOISE:

This hint may save you a little money plus a bad case of shatterid nerves if you hang your own curtains.

I recently bought some curtain rods that were the flat kind where one rod slips inside the other leaving the back side hollow.

I had already nailed the fixtures to the window casings and had the curtains on the rods when I realized that I had bought the wrong size. Even though the rod was extended to the maximum it was still about two inches too short.

I took apart a pants hanger (one with a little round cardboard dowel) and flattened out the cardboard dowel. Then pulled the rod apart and inserted the flattened dowel into both ends of the rod thus extending it to the desired length.

This is quite a money saver for the gals who have to pay extra because their windows are a couple of inches larger than standard size. More often than not, the next size larger is way too big anyway.

Mrs. C.AM.

and it's almost as sturdy as the Rock of Gibraltar!

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I'd like to share my very special way of cooking pinto beans with your readers:

I use six cups of very hot water to one cup of washed and soaked pinto beans.

Then add three medium slices of salt pork, three tablespoons of red chili powder and one half-package of onion soup mixed as a substitute for an onion. Cook as usual.

It really seems to give it an extra special flavor.

And folks — it sure does! Try it.

DEAR HELOISE:

After dragging out my Christmas decorations, getting it all set up and the tree decorated, I was just too tired and didn't have the energy to take all those empty boxes up to the attic. Moreover, I really needed something for under the tree until the gifts were added. So I got a right, bright idea!

I wrapped those boxes (they were all sizes and shapes) tied them with pretty bows and placed them under the tree.

After Christmas, all I will have to do is open the boxes, put the decorations back into them and tote the boxes back to the attic.

Mrs. Homer Vernon

DEAR HELOISE:

This hint is for mothers who don't have a washer or dryer, or access to a car and have to walk to the laundromat:

I have found it is much easier to put your laundry and soap in a baby stoller (providing you have someone to watch the baby) and push your laundry.

It may look funny but it is easier on the back.

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's my contribution on how to keep eggs from rolling off the counter top.

I place mine in the wells of my spoon rest.

DEAR HELOISE:

I had fuzzy zip-in liners that weren't being used because the coats were worn out.

So I made some helmet hoods out of the liners using the fuzzy side of the material on both the outside of the helmet and for the lining.

The kiddies love them because they're so snug and warm.

Give Stuffed Dog Not Live One If Child Is Under Five Years

By GAY PAULEY.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ask not the price of that doggy in the window if it's a gift for a child under five years of age.

Give the tiny ones on your holiday list stuffed animals instead of the real ones with the waggly tails.

"A live puppy is not a toy," warn the experts. "It has feelings and reactions much like those of a human infant. A small child has no more reasoning power than a puppy and you will be asking for trouble if you place a tiny tot and a dog of any age in a family situation where the puppy is going to be forced into fighting for what it thinks is survival.

"Any spirited puppy will try to defend itself when it is 'attacked'. It is accustomed to retaliating against its littermates when they nip him and when a child pulls his ears, feet or tail, it hurts the same way... it doesn't matter to him whether the 'attack' arises from friendly scuffing or enemy aggression."

With these warnings, the current Pet Magazine, published in New York, warns against giving a puppy to a child under five, at Christmas or any other time of the year.

Puppies are, however, perennially popular gifts, and once past that no-no for the toddlers in the family, the publication gives some tips on animal care when the new one arrives.

Remember the puppy requires almost as much care as an infant. There is the expense involved for the necessary distemper and rabies shots. On selection most breeds have particularly idiosyncrasies, but "it is even more valid that individual breeding is the only real criterion for a calm, flexible, well-behaved dog."

Columbiettes of Kingston Council No. 275, K of C, Hold Yule Party

Columbiettes of Kingston Council No. 275, Knights of Columbus, held their annual Christmas party at the Governor Clinton Hotel recently. State President Mrs. Edward Ahl was chairman of the event, assisted by Mrs. Frank Tiano, Mrs. William Sill, Mrs. Thomas Turck and Mrs. William C. Clark. Miss Mary Connolly was Santa Claus.

Honored guests included the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. O'Reilly, chaplain of the Columbiettes, Ralph Clark, faithful navigator, Fourth Degree Assembly; grand knight, John Rice; coordinator of the Columbiettes, Joseph Bruno; and Frank Tiano. Also in attendance were Edward Ahl and two past presidents of the Columbiettes, Mrs. John Coffey and Mrs. Louis Lambiase.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Edward Ahl and Mrs Joseph Bruno, president of the Columbiettes. Gifts were exchanged and members also donated gifts for the Ulster County Infirmary patients.

Those present enjoyed singing Christmas Carols and the evening ended with a musical game.

GREAT CAPE COSTUME from the George Halley Collection in New York featured ample knee-length cape that swirled when model turned ever so slightly. It topped a feminine trouser costume, the pants matching fabric of cape and cinched with sash at waist. The ultimate in femininity was added via a long-sleeved white blouse with a horseshoe collar rimmed by standup ruffling more than half a foot deep. The layers of ruffles repeated at the wrists. Fragrance of Spices Wafts Through Season

WASHINGTON — The pungent aroma of spices and herbs means happy holidays to generations of Americans.

The wooden cookstove has given way to the electric range, but the same delectable odors of fresh mince pie; fruit cake, and roast turkey mingle with the pine fragrance of the Christmas tree.

Many popular holiday herbs and spices have such a long history that myths still cling to them, the National Geographic Society says.

CHRISTMAS HERB.

Rosemary, for instance, is tied to the story of Christmas. Legend holds that the herb's white blooms turned to the blue of the Virgin Mary's cloak when she hung it on a bush to dry during the flight into Egypt. The plant then became known as "Mary's Rose."

Ancient herbalists believed that sage, now a staple in many dressings, improved the memory and assured long life. Doctors at Salerno, the great medieval school of medicine, asked, "How can a man die who grows sage in his garden?"

Imported by the Pilgrims, sage, bay leaves, and thyme were among the first herbs to flavor festive American meals. In 1672, John Josselyn, Gentleman, in his work "New England Rarities," included thyme among the dozens of "herbs as do thrive here."

Marjoram's scent always has been highly regarded. Ancient Greeks and Romans believed the fragrant herb had been created by Venus, goddess of love, and used it to make crowns for happy young couples.

In the Middle Ages, the demand for spices bordered on mania. Rents and taxes often were paid with pepper. A pound of ginger could buy a sheep and an equal amount of mace was worth half a cow.

After explorer Marco Polo's journey to the mysterious "lands of spicerie," European merchants realized that sources of enormous profit could be reached by ship.

Portugal, Spain, England, and Holland raced each other to the Orient and battled for control of spice-producing lands. Monopolies were jealously guarded. London stevedores had their pockets sewn to discourage thefts. If the price of cinnamon fell too low in Amsterdam, the Dutch burned surplus stores.

Despite its high value, cinnamon found a ready market in western Europe. It was used in medicines, perfumes, and ointments long before its flavor was fully appreciated.

The delegation of local firemen joined firemen from all over New York State to protest "unfair labor practices" by the City of Albany, allegedly, against the Albany paid firemen. Goodell's Final Blast-- Perpetual Indochina Ties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Charles E. Goodell, in the last anti - Vietnam address of his Senate career, charged Tuesday that President Nixon's war policies will only assure perpetual U.S. involvement in Indochina.

"We are in worse shape now than we were two years ago," said the Jamestown Republican named to fill the unexpired term of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy two years ago. He was defeated by Conservative James L. Buckley in a three-way contest in last month's election.

Goodell called the recent U.S. raid on a North Vietnam prisoner of war camp "an irresponsible action" on the part of the administration and also criticized the bombing of North Vietnam.

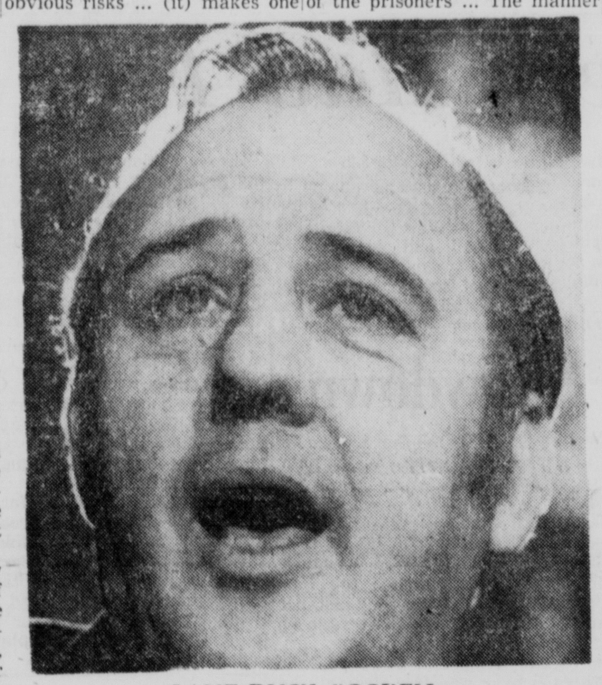

"Further bombing raids on the North are likely to induce the Soviet Union sharply to increase the quantity and the quality of the military aid it gives to North Vietnam.

Should the president carry out his threat to strike back if U.S. reconnaissance planes are hit by enemy fire or if Communist infiltration picks up, Goodell predicted "Soviet or Chinese pilots flying defensive combat missions over the North Vietnamese cities. . .or Chinese-manned anti - aircraft missiles" around key North Vietnamese military installations and population centers.

Goodell called for passage of his amendment to end the war and removal of all U.S. military personnel by a fixed date.

He said the "Hollywood-style commando tactics" used in the U.S. raid on the POW camp at Son Tay, North Vietnam, would "only place their lives in deeper jeopardy."

He added that since the administration "disregarded the obvious risks ... (it) makes one wonder whether it was as concerned with the actual welfare of the prisoners ... The manner in which the administration exploited the incident for its publicity value hardly allays these suspicions."

LAME DUCK GOODELL

Goodell criticized administration strategy in Indochina as "a rather ingenious exercise in domestic public relations, intended to convey simultaneously the impression that we are winning the war and getting out of it.

"There is a real war going on over there in Indochina, and the current administration strategy will only assure our perpetual involvement in it."

He further charged the United States was "destroying Indochina in the name of preserving it ... in order to maintain the rule of a corrupt and dictatorial regime," a policy which he labeled "a moral disgrace."

He characterized the administration's Vietnam POW policy as "classic political doubletalk."

If the administration keeps a residual force in Vietnam until U.S. prisoners are released, as it has indicated it would, Goodell said 'they will languish in their prison camps forever — because they almost certainly will not be freed until the administration abandons its plan for a residual force."

The Most Exciting Headache News In Years!

Doctors' Tests In Treating Nervous Tension Headaches Now Made Public

Non-Narcotic Tablet That Needs No Prescription Proves Just As Effective As The Expensive, Leading Pain-Relief Prescription Of Doctors.

If you're one of the many who get tense, nervous headaches, these latest tests by doctors should be of the greatest importance.

In recent medical tests doctors proved a famous tablet that needs no prescription gives the same complete headache relief as the expensive, leading prescription of doctors.

These doctors' tests proved, beyond a doubt, that Anacin is just as effective to relieve tension headaches, yet Anacin needs no prescription and is far more economical.

With Anacin, headache pain and its nervous tension vanish in minutes. Despite its strength, Anacin is not narcotic. You can take it without getting dizzy or an upset stomach.

County Jobless Gains-- But It's Unique Picture

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

Unemployment, the highest it has been in seven years—nationwide—is on the upswing in Ulster County, too, with about 900 persons out of work last week and a gradual unemployment increase in evidence since last April.

Ulster's position is somewhat unique, however, in that its unemployment figures vary widely from month to month because of seasonal resort and construction positions. For instance last week's big snowstorm placed a definite halt to most construction and consequently applications for unemployment insurance increased appreciably this week.

Also, local, industries and factories over the years have layoffs and rehire at various intervals, according to Joseph Mahar, employment security manager of the State Employment Service in Kingston.

The difference this year, however, lies in the fact that the industries are not rehiring at the same rate they used to and the retail trade did not hire as many holiday salespeople as in the past, he said.

Special

Then too, the Ulster County Civil Service Commission reports a more than doubling of applications received for jobs since September. Many persons seeking positions are reportedly coming from the New York Metropolitan area and are managing to meet the four months residency requirment for Civil Service.

This type of situation is also not a part of the past county employment pattern.

Unemployment figures compared between October of 1969 and October of 1970, show a one and one-half per cent increase, according to Milton Arlensky, senior claims examiner, State Employment Service.

Other signs of a changing unemployment picture locally include the fact that help wanted advertisements in the news media have fallen off in recent months, student jobs in local industry have been cut back and unemployment benefits and welfare payments have risen sufficiently to make unemployment attractive to various segments of the community.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jacobsen, personnel clerk with Ulster County Civil Service Commission, reports that a number of new residents to Ulster County, seeking jobs, ask first what salary is offered. In some instances when the amount did not meet expectations, the applicants dismiss the job idea with comments such as "I might as well stay on welfare."

A number of such young applicants are equipped with bachelor and masters degrees and even a doctorate, she explained. Moving here from the metropolitan area, some are believed to have settled into communal living and have thereby established residency requirements.

All in all, though Mahar sums up the situation saying, "The job market just isn't as prolific . . . unskilled jobs especially are not as plentyful as they used to be. There were 50,400 persons employed in the county in October. That is 400 less than a year ago."

UCCC Loses to St. John's, Hosts New York

By MORT LAFFIN

JAMAICA, L. I.

The Senators of Ulster County Community College blew 21 opportunities from the free throw line and a 20 point lead with 13 minutes remaining to drop a one-point decision, 84-83, to host St. John's freshmen team Tuesday night. The Mike Perry-coached squad now owns a 6-3 overall record.

UCCC plays host to a tough New York City Community College team at the Kate Walton Field House. Game time is set at 8 p. m.

"There were a lot of contributing factors that added up to the loss," said Perry. "We should never have been beaten by this team. Last year, we beat them and they had a better club. Last night, we should have won and didn't. It's that simple."

One of the main reasons for the defeat was the fact that Perry was ejected from the game with 9:31 remaining in the second half and Ulster ahead by 11 markers.

"Rod Wilkinson committed his fourth foul," said the Senators mentor. "And, I got up from the bench to holler at Cliff Weeks who I was going to send in the game in place of Rod. The ref came over behind me and called a technical foul. I asked if he was for real and he called the second technical. This time I said, 'you must be kidding', and he called the third, ejecting me from the game. After that, it was sheer murder," concluded the UCCC coach.

With the cheers of more than 5,000 fans egging them on, the Redmen, paced by Bill Bozeat, 6-11 center and Kevin Raferty, closed the gap. Bozeat fired in two buckets in the closing two minutes to take the lead.

Ulster star Glenn Berry, who had 25 points, fouled out with three minutes left. Pat Harder, who contributed 15 markers and Rod Wilkinson, who hit 20, missed two one-and-one situations in less than a minute. The Senators also missed two taps in the last four seconds. The game ended with the ball rolling around and off the rim after a Senator attempt to tap it in.

Going into last night's contest, the Senators had been hitting about 65 per cent from the charity stripe. Their 17-for-38 performance was less than 50 per cent. However, the losers managed to hit 33 of 66 from the floor.

Wilkenson played his finest game of the year, hitting 10 of 13 attempts from the field. Rod did manage to get into foul trouble though, and had to sit on the bench for six minutes of the second half. Berry slammed in 25 markers but missed five chances from the free throw line, converting seven of 12 and had seven or eight turnovers, according to Perry.

Harder had a tough night against the taller and stronger Bozeat. The 6-11 center intimidated the former John A. Coleman star time and again, forcing missed shots and turnovers on the part of the 6-5 freshman Senator.

Perry also stated: "This was no way to lose. Last night marked the third time I have been ejected from a ball game. We came from behind in those two to beat Nassau and Kingsborough. Last night I went up in the stands to watch and it was torture, utter torture. I don't think I'll ever do that again if I am ever ejected again."

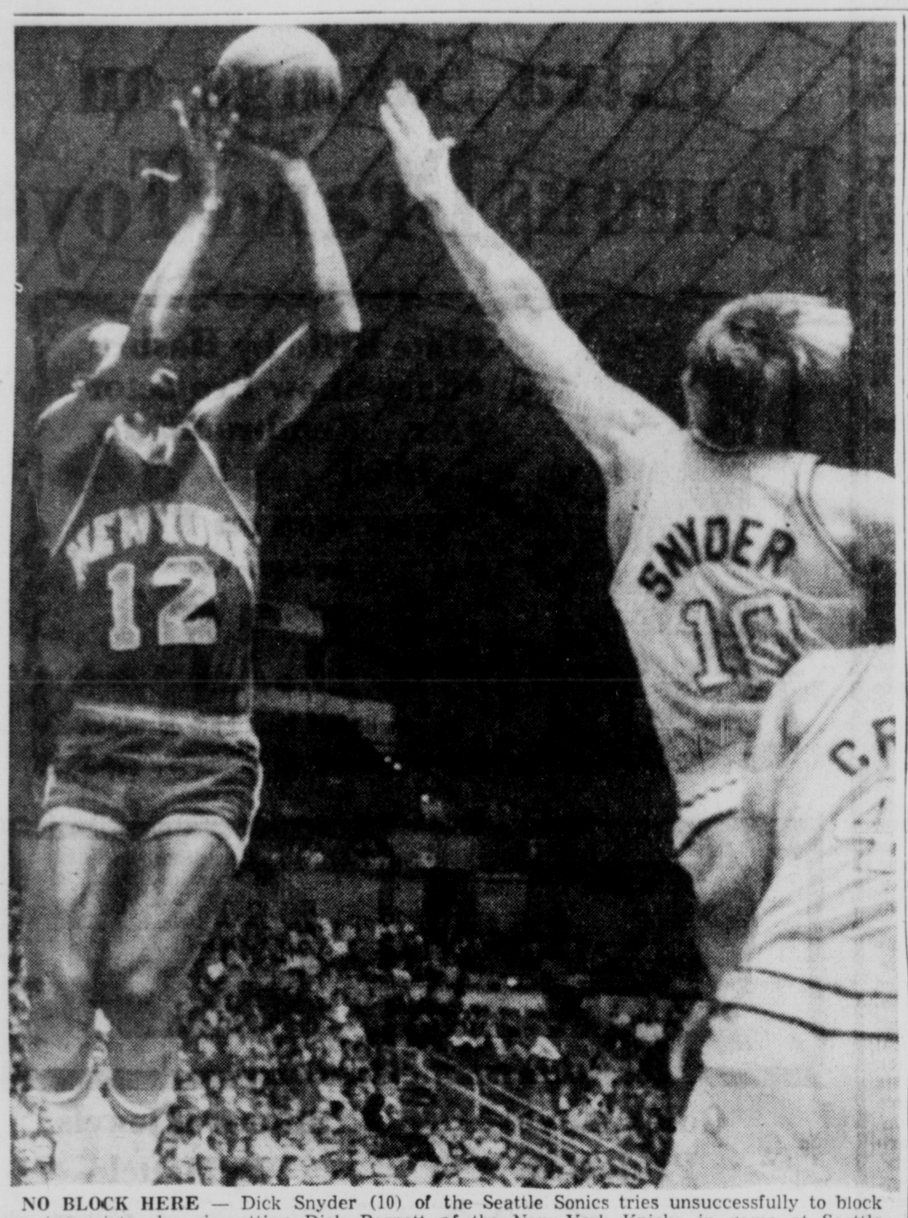

"Tonight's game is going to be just as tough," said Perry. We must get more scoring from our guards if we are going to win this one and other games. If we don't stop Norm Richardson, their fine 6-5 forward, we'll be blown off the floor. Berry will be assigned to him. I also plan to start Rich DeLosa, Wilkinson and Weews. The fifth man is still a question mark," he confcluded.

Cavaliers Know How Hippies Feel

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cleveland Cavaliers have more reason to hate the establishment than any hippie. An 0-28 record can build plenty of dislike.

That's the figure the Cavaliers reached against established clubs Tuesday night when they lost to the Chicago Bulls 121-80 and continued toward the worst record in National Basketball Association history.

The only three victories Cleveland has managed in 39 games this season have been against the other two expansion clubs in the league, Buffalo and Portland.

In other games, Philadelphia overcame Phoenix 133-129 in overtime, Seattle clipped the New York Knicks 119-108 and Atlanta tripped Los Angeles 119-115.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky beat Pittsburgh 116-100, Indiana stopped the Floridians 131-123, Denver slipped past Memphis 104-102 and Texas routed Carolina 160-122.

Chicago had the usual easy time with the Cavaliers, who fell behind 35-19 by the end of the first quarter. Bob Love led the Bulls with 22 points, while McCoy McLemore and Dave Soless Cavaliers.

Billy Cunningham led the way for Philadelphia, scoring nine of his 25 points in the overtime period and Jim Washington chipped in with two key tip-ins.

The 76ers overcame a 24-point deficit in the third period behind rookie center Dennis Awtrey, who had 15 points in the period and 21 in the final half. Philadelphia moved to a five-point lead with three minutes left before Connie Hawkins, who had 33 points, scored five quick points for the Suns to tie.

Jo Jo White scored 35 points, including 22 in the first half to lead Boston over San Francisco as the Celtics erased a 16-4 deficit. Nate Thurmond also tallied 35 for the Warriors.

Walt Hazzard's 15-foot jumper fith 36 seconds left gave Atlanta the go-ahead goal to beat the Lakers. Hazzard led the Hawks with 32 points. Jerry West topped the Lakers with 24.

Seattle held off a third-quarter rally to beat the Knicks. The SuperSonics saw an 11-point lead melt to one at 79-78 before pulling away again, this time for good. Dave DeBusschere led the Knicks with 27. Tom Meschery and Lennie Wilkens each had 29 for Seattle.

Casciola Moves Up

STORRS, Conn (AP) — Bob Casciola, 35, an assistant football coach at the University of Connecticut the past two seasons, has been promoted to head coach of the Huskies.

Casciola, a former assistant at Dartmouth, was named Saturday as John Toner, 47, decided to quit to devote full time to duties as athletic director. Toner, head coach since 1965, had a 20-24-3 record and his 1970 team won the Yankee Conference title.

Big G...Please, Meet Big Mac

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The heralded meeting between the Big G and Big Mac takes place tonight in college basketball.

The Big G, otherwise known as 7-foot-2 Artis Gilmore of the University of Jacksonville, and Big Mac, 7-foot Jim McDaniels of Western Kentucky, face each other in Freedom Hall in Louisville, Ky.

A capacity crowd is expected to watch the clash of the giants as well as a test of two unbeaten nationally ranked teams. Jacksonville is No. 4 in the Associated Press poll, Western Kentucky 10th. Each boasts a 5-0 record.

Top-ranked UCLA, idle for 10 days, romped to its fifth in a row Tuesday night. The unbeaten Bruins crushed Missouri 94-75 behind the combined 57 points by Sidney Wicks and Curtis Rowe. Wicks scored 29, Rowe 28.

Kentucky, No. 7 in the AP poll, rebounded from its defeat by Purdue last week, and defeated Oregon State 84-78. Ninth-ranked Drake made it seven in a row by overwhelming Minnesota 83-66.

There were some surprises among the AP Second Ten.

Indiana, No. 11, with George McGinnis scoring 38 points, rolled over Butler 111-94, but North Carolina, St. John's of New York and New Mexico State, No. 17, 19 and 20, respectively, were beaten.

Utah whipped North Carolina 105-86 led by Mike Newlin's 30 points. Boston College, paced by Jim O'Brien's 26 points, snapped the six-game winning streak of St. John's 69-66. New Mexico State fell before New Mexico 72-66.

Michigan won its own Michigan Invitational tourney by beating Wyoming 94-76 as Dan Fife showed the way with 20 points. California landed third place by beating Harvard 77-74.

Johnny Neumann, the No. 1 collegiate scorer, came up with 53 points for Mississippi against Vanderbilt, but the Johnny Rebs were routed 130-112 by the Commodores. The 130 points set a Vanderbilt record for one game.

Two free throws by Bob Siemak with 29 seconds left gave Los Angeles Loyola an upset 63-61 victory over Cincinnati and Jake Davis' 30-foot jumper in the last second gave Pepperdine an 86-84 overtime triumph over NYU.

N.C. State handed Davidson its first defeat 77-64, while in other games Fordham won its seventh by shading Miami, Fla., 85-83, Chicago Loyola humbled Cornell, 82-69, Duke downed Dayton, 70-64, Colorado squeaked past Texas Tech, 67-66, Massachusetts trounced Hofstra 87-60 and Brigham Young edged Santa Clara, 68-67.

New Rangers Had Fun

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The old Rangers had their brief moments of fun, but it wasn't enough to keep the new Rangers from skating back into a share of first place in the National Hockey League's East Division.

Moving easily behind Dave Balon's three goals within two three-goal spurts, the New York Rangers crushed the expansion Buffalo Sabres 7-2 Tuesday night for their sixth straight triumph that moved them into a first place deadlock with idle Boston.

In the only other game, California jolted Chicago 5-2.

The only resistance put up by the Sabres was by a trio of former Rangers-Phil Goyette, Donny Marshall and well-traveled Eddie Shack. Goyette and Shack scored the Buffalo goals while Marshall assisted on both and Shack on one.

However, they were no match for Balon and his mates. Jack Egers' sixth goal of the season broke a 1-1 tie five minutes into the second period and Balon's goal five minutes later was the clincher. He added two more goals—he was 17 for the season—during a three-goal barrage within 4 minutes and 50 seconds of the final period.

California's victory over Chicago's West Division leaders enabled the Golden Seals to vacate the division cellar for the first time this season, changing places with Los Angeles.

Ernie Hicke paced California with a pair of goals. His brother Billy also scored for the Golden Seals along with defensemen Carol Vadnais and Ron Stackhouse. Bobby Hull produced his 17th goal of the season for the Black Hawks and Pat Stapleton added the other.

Dallas and Lions in Showdown

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cincinnati - Baltimore playoff game Saturday matches the team with the longest winning streak in the American Football Conference against the team with the best record, but for imposing opposite forces the Detroit-Dallas showdown later in the day has a big edge.

When the Lions and Cowboys collide at 4 p.m. EST in a game that will be nationally televised by CBS, it is likely that an immediate slugfest will take place along the line of scrimmage, where Dallas' No. 1 ranked rushers will take on Detroit's No. 1 ranked defenders.

The ringleader for the Cowboy running backs is, surprisingly, a rookie—Duane Thomas, who gained 803 yards for a 5.3 average during the regular season. Detroit's best was Mel Farr, who gained 717 yards for a 4.3 average before separating his shoulder. He remains a question-mark for Saturday's game.

While the battle on the ground takes place, each team likely will be wary about putting the ball in the air since both have been particularly adept at amassing interceptions. Detroit tied Minnesota for the NFC lead with 28. Dallas was next with 24.

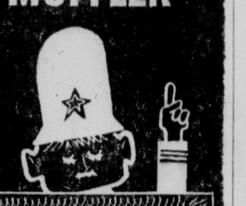

The individual leaders were Dick LeBeau for Detroit with nine and Charlie Waters for Dallas with five. LeBeau's figures gave him the NFC championship in that department.

Two AFC statistical champions will be on display at Baltimore when the Bengals, with seven consecutive victories, and the Colts, with an 11-2-1 record, tangle in a game that will be nationally televised at 1 p.m., EST, by NBC.

Jim Duncan provided the Colts with the most exciting kickoff returning in the AFC by averaging 35.4 yards a return. Dave Lewis supplied the Bengals with the top long-distance punting with a 46.2 average on 79 punts.

The Lions and Cowboys, who each have won five straight, did not meet this season. They last played in 1968 with Dallas winning 59-13.

Swoboda Would Know About DaVinci Story

NEW YORK (UPI)—A guy with the Mets booked passage for one of those gala Christmas cruises to the West Indies.

He was all set to relax a little and enjoy himself and some of his friends even came down to the ship the Leonardo da Vinci, to see him off Monday and bid him bon voyage.

The ship was due to sail at noon. Twenty minutes before then a sheet of paper with a message on it was slipped under the door of this guy's stateroom.

"The Italian Maritime Union has called a 24-hour strike," read the message. "Try again tomorrow."

The guy with the Mets shrugged.

"That's the kind of year it's been," he said.

Ron Swoboda, the outfielder the Mets have up on the block for money, marbles or anything, laughed when he heard about the Leonardo da Vinci episode.

"I know what he means," Swoboda said about the other member of the Mets left standing in shallow water so to speak.

When Ron Swoboda previously was last heard from he was somewhat unhappy and that's putting it mildly. He was particularly unhappy with Gil Hodges, who manages the Mets, because Hodges has been playing him increasingly less the past few years and last season he played him less than at any time since originally coming to the club six years ago.

Ron Swoboda gave out a couple of interviews the past summer in which he came out and said loud and clear he didn't care if he once was considered the 'darling" of all the Mets' fans, he wanted to be traded now because he felt Hodges had lost confidence in him.

Three things have happened since Swoboda made that original announcement.

One, he and teammate Ed Kranepool opened a restaurant called "The Dugout" in Amityville, Long Island, not too far from where both live.

Two, the Mets have done their best to accommodate Swoboda by offering him around to everybody but you'd never believe how little they've been offered in return.

And three, Swoboda is still with the Mets.

This is the time of year to show a little extra good will toward your fellow man and Ron Swoboda certainly is ready. He isn't getting down on his knees or anything like that but it's obvious he has been doing some serious thinking about some of the things he said.

"My opinions haven't changed. I still believe in them, but I realize now that to say some of the things I did and say them the way I did was wrong," Swoboda says.

Getting into the restaurant business helped, I think, because I'm the boss there and I see that an employer and employee never see things the same way. Maybe some of the problems we've had, I mean Gil Hodges and I, are not problems anymore because I understand our relationship a little better now.

"What I'm saying is that there has to be some growing up on my part, a little more experience and maturity, and I think there has been. Incidentally, I read or heard somewhere that I was supposed to have called the Yankees and have asked them to get me. That's not true. I never called them. I was thinking about it, but I know you're not allowed to do that."

Was Swoboda aware of the second-and third-line players the Mets have been offered for him?

"I'd heard about that, too, and I wasn't so surprised," he said. "I know how the other guys think. They think look, Swoboda is in bad graces because he's mouthing off and he's become a problem but the fact is in the end I'm not the big problem they might think.

"What do I think of my status now? I think the club still is trying to trade me but if it can't I'll go to spring training like nothing even happened. I think I've learned a great deal in the past six months. Gil Hodges? I wish him nothing but the best."

Swoboda means it.

It's not generally known, and you won't get it from Swoboda, but he paid a special visit to Gil Hodges' home not too long after the Mets' manager suffered his heart attack two years ago. Hodges wasn't home. He was still in Florida recuperating.

That visit by Ron Swoboda doesn't really prove anything of course. But then again, maybe it does after you think about it for awhile.

NFL Playoff Odds Listed

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI)—Minnesota, Oakland, Baltimore and Detroit were listed as favorites Monday by Harrah's Tahoe Racebook for the pro football playoffs this weekend.

In Saturday games, the Colts were 6 1-2 points over Cincinnati while Detroit was given a four-point edge over the Dallas Cowboys.

In the Sunday games, the San Francisco Forty Niners were listed as seven-point underdogs to the Vikings while Oakland was favored by seven points over Miami.

PHIL BENGSTON

Phil Bengston Bows to Legend

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Confidence and camaraderie, two vital ingredients of the Green Bay Packers during the Vince Lombardi era, were less prominent this past season on the National Football League team.

Whether the Packers' decline from two-time Super Bowl champions to also-rans in the National Conference's Central Division, and Tuesday's resignation of Phil Bengtson as coach and general manager, can be traced to the apparent cooling is a point of conjecture.

The 57-year-old Bengtson's resignation ended a dismal three year stretch that saw the Pack win 20 games while losing 21 and tying once. This year's mark of 6-8 was the worst for the Green-and-Gold since 1958 when they posted a 1-10-1 record.

The 1959 season saw Lombardi take over the reins of a chronic loser and elevate the club to the role of champion. Although Lombardi's public image was that of an ogre, the Packer players knew better.

One of Lombardi's first moves as Packer coach-general manager was to hire Bengtson as his defensive coach. Through astute trades and recognizing his players' strong points—and their weak ones—Lombardi was able to mold a good, if not great, team.

He added confidence—his own—and demanded camaraderie. The Packers then were no longer a team, but a close-knit family.

Now, from outward appearances, the Packers are just another pro football team. The Packers are just another pro football team. The Packers are close, they are friends, but no longer are they family.

In the nine years that Lombardi coached the Packers, Bengtson's defensive team was never lower than third-best in the NFL.

Prior to the 1968 season, Lombardi stepped out of the head coach's job and gave the reins to Bengtson. The following season, Lombardi left Green Bay entirely to become head coach and vice president of the Washington Redskins. Bengtson then took over as general manager of the Packers.

To be fair, Bengtson didn't walk into a powerhouse when he took over.

Bengtson had to completely rebuild a team around the few remaining veterans.

Then the injuries began.

Besides quarterback Bart Starr, who played with arm, rib and knee injuries, the Packers lost a backup quarterback Don Horn; linebacker Dave Robinson; running backs Dave Hampton and Travis Williams, and defensive tackle Rich Moore for long periods through injuries.

There also were other problems with the Packers—internal problems.

"Because of a very disappointing season in 1970, and hoping that a change will improve the won-loss record of the Packers in 1971, I hereby tender my resignation to become effective Feb. 1, 1971," Bengtson said.

The Packer Board of Directors is expected to meet shortly to consider a replacement for Bengtson.

Among those rumored under consideration are George Allen, coach of the Los Angeles Rams; Bill Austin, Washington Redskins head coach and former Packer assistant; Tom Fears, former head coach of the New Orleans Saints who also was a Packer aide under Lombardi, Ara Parseghian, head coach at Notre Dame, and Starr.

Unemployment Hits Many Coaches

NEW YORK (AP) — If you think the unemployment rate is high in the United States, take a glance at the risky profession of coaching football.

With the regular college and professional seasons barely over, the coaching fraternity has had more openings than a busy dentist.

Some 18 coaches who started the season at major colleges are no longer on the job, although four of them have turned up elsewhere.

That includes highly successful Bob Blackman of Dartmouth, who was to be officially named head coach at Illinois today. The Illinois athletic board tried to fire Jim Valek during the season but his players stood up for him and he was allowed to finish out the campaign.

Others who latched on elsewhere include Mike McGee, who went from East Carolina to Duke to replace the dismissed Tom Harp; Bill Peterson, who departed Florida State for the dual job of head coach and athletic director at Rice, and Jim Pittman, who left Tulane for Texas Christian shortly after winning the Liberty Bowl. Bo Hagan had resigned at Rice while Fred Taylor was let out at TCU.

Jobs still open include Dartmouth; Florida State; Harvard, where John Yovicsin resigned on doctor's orders; Iowa, where Ray Nagel stepped down after being fired and quickly rehired last spring, and Tulane.

Sonny Randle, a former pro star, was elevated from an assistant's job to replace McGee at East Carolina.

In other moves, Don James, a Colorado aide, took over for the resigned Dave Puddington at Kent State; Fran Curci of Tampa, a former Miami, Fla. quarterback, returned to his alma mater, where Charlie Tate quit early in the season and Walt Kichefski finished up as interim coach.

Harry Gamble of Lafayette succeeded Bob Odell, who resigned at Penn, and was in turn replaced by Neil Putnam, an assistant at Yale. Joe McMullen of San Jose State took ill during the season and Dewey King, who took over, was later given the job for next year, as well.

Three Virginia schools canned their head men. Assistants Don Lawrence and Bob Thalman replaced George Blackburn and Vito Ragazzo at Virginia and VMI, respectively, while Virginia Tech picked Charlie Coffey, defensive coordinator at Virginia Tech, to succeed Jerry Claiborne. Lloyd Eaton stepped down at Wyoming and assistant Fritz Shurmur moved up.

In addition, Ben Wilson of Wichita State and Rick Tolley of Marshall were killed, along with many of their players, in plane crashes.

At least 11 small colleges also lost their coaches for one reason or another.

BOB BLACKMAN

Those 11 Points Scare Woody

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Ohio State rates an 11-point favorite over Stanford in the Rose Bowl. Don't mention it to Woody Hayes.

"Don't you start talking about upsets. If you talk about them, they happen," the Ohio State coach warned writers Tuesday after sending his Big Ten football champions through a heavy outside practice.

The rain let up and gave Ohio State and Stanford a chance to get in much-needed work for their New Year' s Day clash.

Alex Webster Signs

NEW YORK (UPI) —Alex Webster has survived the battle to make the New York Giants a contender again in the National Football League.

The Giants' coach signed a one-year contract Tuesday for an estimated $40,000, a raise of about $10,000 over his present salary, after leading the team to a 9-5 record. The Giants had been 6-8 in Webster's first season as head coach in 1969.

A former running back with the Giants, Webster was the surprise choice to take over after Allie Sherman was fired. During both of Webster's seasons the Giants have gotten off to poor starts, and in 1971 they lost their first three games before coming within one game of therr first divisional title since 1964.

Although New York owner Wellington Mara was agreeable to a longer contract, Webster said he would be happier playing it one year at a time.

"If he'd wanted it, I would have given him a longer term contract," said Mara. "When two-year contract because I he first signed, I gave him a told him it was like a battlefield promotion and the first year wouldn't be a real test. Even then, though, I knew he only wanted one-year contracts."

Mara said they "haggled for about 35 seconds" before reaching agreement on the terms. Then they launched into a two-hour discussion over plans for next season and the college draft.

New Faces On All-NFC

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — "New faces" would be an appropriate title for the 1970 United Press International National Football Conference All-Star team which was announced Tuesday.

Although the shifting of three teams to the AVC made some changes automatic, the turnover was unusual on offense as only two of the 11 players—guard Tom Mack and tackle Bob Brown of Los Angeles—repeated this season.

Things were a little more normal on defense as seven of the 11 All-Stars repeated but the four new players made a total of 13 different selections out of the 22 All-Stars.

The team was selected by a nationwide panel of 36 sports-writers and broadcasters from the 13 NFC cities.

The top vote getter on offense was Washington running back Larry Brown, who became the first Redskin to gain a thousand yards in a season. He was joined in the backfield by running back Mac Arthur Lane of St. Louis and quarterback John Brodie of St. Louis.

Wide Receivers

The wide receivers are Gene Washington of San Francisco and Dick Gordon of Chicago.

Joining Mack and Brown in the line are center Ed Flanagan of Detroit, tackle Ernie McMillan of St. Louis and guard Gale Gillingham of Green Bay. The tight end is Charlie Sanders of Detroit.

On defense, the front four was the same for the second straight year with Carl Eller of Minnesota and Deacon Jones of Los Angeles at ends and Alan Page of Minnesota and Merlin Olsen has made it every season since 1966.

Dick Butkus of Chicago is the middle linebacker for the fourth straight year and Chuck Howley of Dallas and Larry Stallings of St. Louis are the outside linebackers.

Butkus, Eller and Brown each received 34 votes from the 36-man panel to lead the balloting.

In the defensive secondary, there are three new faces with Larry Wilson of St. Louis the only repeater at safety. Paul Krause of Minnesota made it for the first time at the other safety and Jim Johnson of San Francisco and Roger Wehrli of St. Louis are the cornerbacks.

Second Team

On the second team, Fran Tarkenton of New York is the quarterback with Ron Johnson of New York and Mel Farr of Detroit at the running backs. The wide receivers are Charley Taylor of Washington and Clifton McNeil of New York.

The center is Mick Tinglehoff with John Friend of Dallas and Irv Goode of St. Louis at the guards and Rocky Freitas of Detroit and Cas Banaszek of San Francisco at the tackles. The tight end is Jackie Smith of St. Louis.

On defense, Claude Humphrey of Atlanta and Larry Hand of Detroit are the ends with Bob Lilly of Dallas and Charlie Krueger of San Francisco at the tackles. Mike Lucci of Detroit is the middle linebacker with Dave Wilcox of San Francisco and Fred Carr of Green Bay at the linebackers.

Lem Barney of Detroit and Bruce Taylor of San Francisco are the cornerbacks with Spider Lockhart of New York and Willie Wood of Green Bay at the safeties.

Brand New Scene For Jack Twyman

By DAVE BEGEL

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Jack Twyman is an expert on pro basketball, but he tries not to show it.

Twyman is the color man for the American Broadcasting Company's professional basketball telecasts. As he says, "I can't be too expert, or we'll lose the audience."

After 11 years in the NBA, first with the Rochester Royals and then moving to Cincinnati with the Royals, Twyman knows whereof he speaks when he tells the ABC audience what is really going on out on the court. Since he has been with ABC for five years, Twyman says he has developed a new perspective about basketball.

"When I was playing, I was only concerned about forwards, because that's what I played," he said. "But now, I look at the guards and the center as well as the forward. I guess I look at the game more from a coach's point of view."

Twyman may see the game as if he were a coach, but he quickly disavows any desire to enter the coaching ranks.

"I like what I'm doing," he says. "I feel like I'm giving something back to the game—it was pretty good to me and I have a responsibility to it."

Twyman was in Milwaukee to team with Keith Jackson in a Monday night broadcast of a game between the Milwaukee Bucks and the Los Angeles Lakers. When he talked about television and the upcoming game, his eyes lit up at the prospect of an exciting evening.

"These broadcasts are just 097s hfr zziyczsalydiisesg sporfantastic," he said. "People can sit in their living room and see four of the greatest players ever to play basketball—Oscar Robertson and Lew Alcindor for Milwaukee and Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry West for the Lakers—all on the same court. It's really a great spectacle.

"And I think guys like mystlf add something to the game. I know what goes on in the locker rooms and I know what it's like to get a shot in the mouth. So I just try to convey that kind of feeling to the audience."

He recognizes that his vast knowledge of baskttball presents unique problem when he is on the air.

"My problem is I sometimes talk too much," Twyman said. Basketball is so fast you have to get in and get out right away. You can't waste any words."

Twyman doesn't waste words when he is on the air and he doesn't pull any punches either. He says honesty is the most important thing to him in broadcasting. He said he had criticized the Bucks in their back-to-back losses to the New York Knicks this year.

"The reason New York won is that they were smarter than the Bucks—at least in those two games. The Bucks should have gone to Alcindor, I said so. They blew the game and I said that, too."

"I enjoy my affiliation with ABC and I love basketball. This game is so exciting and it's growing all the time.'

His bosses agree with him about pro basketball, evidently, since ABC is considering broadcasting Monday night basketball games next year, after their successful foray into Monday night pro football. Twyman, 37, is all for it.

Jack Kelly Ponders New Policy in Track

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jack Kelly, president of the Amateur Athletic Union, has served notice that his reign will be an iconoclastic one.

"I would like to see some of the Philadelphia Eagles or the 76ers take up rowing," Kelly said Tuesday. "And take the case of Wilt Chamberlain. He was a great track star in high school and would have been a great decathlon man, if he could have competed in that event as an amateur while maintaining his pro basketball status."

Kelly, the Henley Regatta winner in 1947 and 1949, Pan Am Game winner in 1955 and 1959, and Olympic bronze medal winner in 1956, believes that the AAU and all amateur sports "needs a little more consistency, a little less hypocrisy."

He sees no reason why a man cannot be an amateur in one sport, a pro in another.

Kelly spoke as the AAU disclosed a new television pact for 18 Sunday afternoon telecasts during 1971.

Stricken 7-Year Old Flooded by Yule Mail

INKSTER, Mich. (AP) — Until a week ago a letter or postcard was a welcome novelty to little Bobby Miller.

Suddenly, to his delighted wonderment, tens of thousands of pieces of Christmas mail are pouring in for the stricken 7-year-old.

"There are at least 500,000 cards and letters so far and we expect lots more. This is incredible," said Stephen Jakobowski, postmaster of this Detroit suburb of 600,000.

The flood of mail followed the widespread publication of news reports early last week telling how the sick boy's eyes lighted up when the postman brought him infrequent letters.

Bobby is in the last stages of a hereditary muscular disorder Werdnig - Hoffman paralysis which has left his 24-pound body a limp stick, strapped in a wheelchair.

He has lived two years longer than doctors expected and they say this probably will be his last Christmas.

"A week ago he was so delighted to see just his own name on a Christmas card or letter," said Bobby's mother, Mrs. Ralph Miller, 25. "Now this. We can't believe it.

"People are wonderful."

She swept her hand around the living room of the small, white frame two-bedroom house.

Post office trays stacked with mail were piled against the wall.

Bags and boxes of yet to be opened cards, some addressed only to "The sick little boy, Inkster, Mich.," teetered next to the Christmas tree.

'My wife and I have only gotten about six hours of sleep since it all started rolling in last Tuesday," Bobby's 27-year-old father said. "Sunday night we had 16 people over here opening up letters—our in-laws, all the neighbors — everybody's trying to help."

Bobby became so excited at the first windfall of mail that he started to run a temperature of 100 and was taken to his grandmother's house in nearby Romulus. Now he is secluded there and his family brings the mail over and reads it to him.

Greetings from the President and Mrs. Nixon were among the armful of letters Jakobowski personally delivered Monday.

Others came from astronauts, professional baseball and football teams and other kids, many of whom enclosed pictures of their favorite pets.

Fuel Oil Men Ratify Pact in New York City

NEW YORK (UPI)—A seven-day strike that left as many as 200,000 persons without heat and hot water ended Tuesday night when 2,800 fuel oil deliverymen and repairmen ratified a two-year contract which will give them $60 in wage and benefit increases.

Members of Teamsters Union Local 553 voted 901 to 415 to approve the contract in three hours of balloting. The contract offered by the 300-member New York Oil Heating Association, provides $40 in increased wages and $20 in benefits. Drivers will receive $215 a week and repairmen $225 in two steps.

The workers, who normally provide 40 per cent of the city's fuel oil, were to resume deliveries today. Company spokesmen said some of the workers who walked out last Wednesday, made deliveries during the night as New York City experienced its first heavy snow storm of the winter.

Temperatures were below freezing Tuesday night and Simon Golar, head of the city's Housing Authority, said 58 projects with up to 200,000 tenants, were without heat.

Golar said drivers refused to make emergency deliveries to projects where there were sick and elderly, although they did deliver to hospitals, nursing homes and other health facilities.

A union spokesman said now that the strike is over the workers would be willing to work overtime to make extra deliveries. A six-day strike by the same union in 1968 created a health peril in the city.

Fire Chief Reminds Public On Sprinklers

KINGSTON

Chief James M. Brett of the Kingston Fire Department, in a statement released today reminds the public of the city ordinance regarding automatic sprinkler systems.

That ordinance reads as follows, he said:

"An Ordinance Prohibiting the Shutting Off or Interference With Water Supply to Sprinkler Systems Used for Fire Protection"

The City of Kingston, In Common Council Assembled, does hereby ordain and enact:

Section 1: It shall be unlawful for any person to shut off or interfere with the water supply to a sprinkler system used for fire protection without first notifying the fire chief or one of the deputy fire chiefs of the Kingston Fire Department of the exact time and place of such contemplated action.

Section 2: Any person violating any provision of this ordinance shall be guilty of an offense punishable by a fine not exceeding $50 or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding ten days, or both.

Section 3: This ordinance shall take effect immediately, dated July 3, 1963.

Chief Brett suggests that it might be wise for persons concerned, to have a copy of this ordinance made and posted near the sprinkler shutoff valve. Chief Brett added that violators of this ordinance will be prosecuted.

Gets 6 Months On Store Charge

KINGSTON

A Kingston man apprehended at Montgomery Wards in the Town of Ulster on a charge of shoplifting Monday night, was sentenced to six months in the Ulster County Jail after entering a plea of guilty before Town of Ulster Justice Arthur A. Reilly, according to Kingston State Police.

Preston Coddington, 22, of 11 Wurts Street was apprehended by security officers at the store as he was leaving the building. Eight stereo tape cartridges valued at $51.81 were found to be on his possession, police said. A complaint for the man's arrest was signed by Thomas Lesbirio, merchandising manager at the local Wards store.

Coddington was later taken before Reilly where he entered the guilty plea.

Mischief, Arson Holds Two Boys

RHINEBECK

Two Rhinebeck area juveniles, arrested Monday on charges of malicious mischief and arson, will be turned over to the Dutchess County Family Court for further action, according to Rhinebeck State Police.

The two youths were arrested at about 3 p.m. Monday following an intensive investigation conducted by Rhinebeck troopers and Red Hook Village Police Department.

Police allege that the two broke into St. Christopher's Roman Catholic Church in Red Hook late Sunday night and damaged several religious items inside the building. Police also state that the pair allegedly used matches to ignite candles and hymnbooks, resulting in minor fire and subsequent damage to church pews and the flooring of the building.

Police said that the fire extinguished itself.

The youths were reportedly arrested at their homes Monday afternoon. They were taken into custody and then released in the custody of their parents pending a later Family Court appearance. Family Court petitions, it was stated, are currently being drawn up.

Participating in the investigation were BCI Investigator D. W. Harrison and Trooper J. J. Hawkin of the Rhinebeck State Police Barracks and Patrolman Rexford Maine and Henry Wilga of the Red Hook Police Department.

Dear Abby

License Renewal?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend and I took out a marriage license over two years ago, but he keeps changing his mind about getting married. I am getting pretty fed up with him. How long is a marriage license good for?

FLORENCE.

DEAR FLORENCE: In your case, it's good for nothing.

DEAR ABBY: I am going with Ray, a very nice gentleman who is not yet officially divorced. There is no problem there because Ray and his wife are very friendly. In fact, she is all set to marry another man as soon as the divorce is final.

The problem is that Ray's son is being married soon in another state and Ray wants me to go to the wedding with him. I don't think I have any business going. Ray's wife's boy friend is going with her, and Ray says it would be less awkward if he brought me along.

There will be many of Ray's relatives present and I'm a little old-fashioned about meeting them under these circumstances.

If I could sit inconspicuously in back of the church it wouldn't be so bad, but Ray is his son's best man, which would put me in the wedding party.

I know Ray wants me to go, but he isn't insisting. What would you do?

RAY'S LADYFRIEND

DEAR LADYFRIEND: I'd pass.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married only four months and I love my husband dearly. I have done everything I can to make him happy, and I thought I succeeded, but I am miserable because since our wedding day not once has he said, "I love you," or, "You look nice," or, "I enjoyed the dinner."

He seems satisfied with my housekeeping and cooking and I know he is proud to be seen with me, but when I brought up my need to be told, he seemed surprised that I would expect any compliments or verbal signs of affection or appreciation.

He had the nerve to say I should be thankful that he isn't an alcoholic or a run-around.

I have tried discussing this with him, but he gets furious and says I expect too much, that he loves me and that is that.

I need more than bread and board. I feel like a housekeeper and a mistress. It would take so little for me to feel just great. He reads your column. Maybe you can get to him.

UNHAPPY

DEAR UNHAPPY: If you've discussed it with him and can't make any headway, quit talking about it. (From now on, it's not "discussion," it's nagging.) You may have to accept this non-verbal man the way he is. It's not what a man says, it's what he does that conveys the real message.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning that woman who saw a man sneak into her neighbor's house thru the garage door in the wee hours of the morning, noticed he stayed an hour and 50 minutes and then departed. I'm sure I am the man.

But that's not half of it, Abby. I was on my way to her house, but spotted her husband's car at home (he was supposed to be in Seattle) so, as I am not one to waste an opportunity, I visited her neighbor, who had previously caught me sneaking into her neighbor's house, but had the presence of mind to write to me instead of to Dear Abby.

This will not seem too confusing if you will remember that moral indignation is nothing but jealousy with a halo.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Disagreeing openly with others could take away from the harmony and the happiness that is so desired and to be expected during the season of goodwill and peace. Carry through with agreements already made and do nothing to start a new venture that is permanent.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) It's an ideal day to handle all financial affairs wisely, pay bills, look into new and profitable ventures. Show tact with an advisor you have long trusted. He or she may be off on some tangent now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Your ideas may differ from those of an associate who has much influence, so do not push this person too far, or you get into trouble. Show a more compromising attitude. Make the evening a happy one by being cheerful, tactful.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Forget fun and get at all that accumulated work ahead of you and then you can later go out for recreation. Co-workers expect much of you, so do not disappoint them. Make this a very productive and happy day.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Accepting invitations extended to you brings fine results. You can do some entertaining, also. Join with those you like and have a wonderful time. Avoid heavy expenses, though.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Instead of criticizing kin so much, build up their ego and they will do more for you and for themselves. Relaxing at home in P.M. is very good for you and you can catch up on reading. Contentment can be yours.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Think out what still has to be done in preparing for the coming holidays and get busy at such duties. You have fine ideas and can gain the goodwill of those around you. Save time for personal duties, also.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Much depends upon how you handle financial affairs now, and then the future can be much brighter for you. An advisor has excellent ideas so be sure to ask for them. Don't be so adamant. Show that you have ambition.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Provided you do nothing to annoy an associate, you are able to do what you actually want to do. Some new venture you have in mind requires only your own attention. Get busy at it and make it succeed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Show that you handle personal matters efficiently and keep information confidential. Confer with others and the future will be more to your liking. Avoid extravagance of any kind.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Ideal day to contact others and show your affection for them. Plan future projects in a way that is mutually agreeable. Attend a group affair that can be most helpful to you in the days ahead.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get out into the business world and do those things that give you a better image. Show that you work constructively and cheerily. Cultivating higher-ups is your best bet right now. Show that you have ability.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are highly inspired and can get your ideas across with ease and efficiency. Seek out influential persons who will give you their backing. Show that you have high principles.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people who will be filled with ideas and will have a practical plan for carrying them out; knows how to gain the cooperation of co-workers as well, and has a tremendous will few will be able to do anything about. Teach early to be a cooperative person and there can be much success in this chart, no matter what the forte may be. Leadership is possible here. Send to college of own choice.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

SURPRISED: (Q.) My parents left town last Friday night. They weren't planning to be back till Saturday. I invited my boy friend over. My parents came home at 11:15. My boy friend and I were in my bedroom.

We are both 15. What do you think is the best way to get them to trust me again?—Caught in Michigan.

(A.) You can resolve not to let them down again. And you can stick to your resolution. There's no other way. Even then, it will take time.

You and your boy friend are, of course, not the only ones at fault. I believe your parents will realize from this experience that it is unwise to leave a teen-ager at home alone at night.

NICE BOY: (Q.) I have a terrible crush on this boy. I don't know if he likes me the way I like him because he treats not just me but my mother and everyone else in my family specially nice.

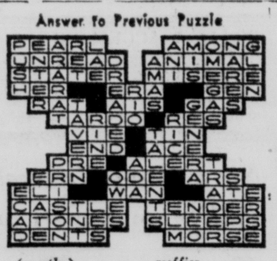

He teases me a lot, but it is not really unkind. It's a lot of fun to me. He comes over every night with a friend. How can I find out if he likes me?—Head Over Heels in New Jersey.

(A.) If he comes over every night, it's not just to see your family! Make him feel welcome and maybe he'll start leaving his friend and your family home and taking you out with just him.

Some Shrewd Help for Kids

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS's Tuesday night special, "A World of Love" — with another all-star cast surrounded by darling children on behalf of a worthy cause—worked as entertainment, too.

Shirley MacLaine was hostess of the show supporting UNICEF. She introduced the television audience to a U.N. General Assembly chamber packed with the children of U.N. personnel, many of them in native costumes.

In the course of the hour, Julie Andrews reminisced on a Christmas theme. Richard Burton had a reading and told a story of his own childhood—in theatrical terms, too. Audrey Hepburn and a group of children sat on a Roman hillside and sang "Silent Night" in Italian. Barbra Streisand sang a sentimental song about a newborn child. All were taped additions to the basic show and only Miss Hepburn and company blended happily with the scene.

The real stars were those enchanting U.N. children, but they needed some shrewd help from Bill Cosby and Florence Henderson, both with an easy way with kids.

Cosby and a group of little ones made up a fairy story. Miss Henderson led them in song and marching.

It was a gentle and moving program, just right for the time of the year, even including Cosby's pleas for UNICEF support.

Later, CBS's biweekly "60 Minutes," was a little less provocative than usual.

The first segment was an inspection of some potentially lethal toys among 2,000 collected by a Boston attorney.

Since the dinner-hour news programs had demonstrated some dangerous toys banned by the Federal Trade Commission, "60 Minutes," which had postponed the sequence for two weeks, was mildly scooped.

The toys demonstrated, however, were not on the banned list. Interviewer Mike Wallace, usually imperturbable, was so appalled by the power of a porjectile from a toy cross-bow that he exclaimed, "My God, that's truly a weapon!"

There was a long segment on Jerusalem and some film shot at a group encounter session at a self-help center for young drug addicts in Westport, Conn.

Brightest moments came last when Hughes Rudd took a look at some male fashion models in a parade of what the well-dressed man may—or may not be wearing soon.

"Curiouser and curiouser," said Alice to herself. "I have passed what would almost be an opening bid and everyone is bidding as if the entire pack were aces and kings. Everyone must have a couple of void suits. Guess I had best go to five clubs and save the rubber."

The March Hare and the Dormouse passed. The Mad Hatter, sitting East, remarked, "You open the bidding and raise me. Now you can't double five clubs. I don't understand it."

The March Hare replied, "I would be as mad as you to double." Then he led the queen of spades.

Alice won in dummy and led the jack of clubs. The Hatter followed suit and Alice went up with her ace. Then she led a heart and played dummy's jack. The Hatter took his queen and led a diamond, but Alice went right up with her ace. Then she led a heart to dummy's ace, ruffed a heart, got back to dummy by ruffing a spade, and discarded her losing diamond on one of dummy's good hearts. The March Hare ruffed but that was his side's last trick.

Alice had made the best play. West almost surely held the club king and this play gave her the best chance.

The Hatter had the last word. "I may be mad, but if I had been sitting West I would have doubled and opened a diamond."

The Dormouse, who had been sleeping peacefully since he put down the dummy, woke up to mumble something about perfect hindsight whereupon the Hatter and the March Hare poured the rest of the tea on him.

Angela Faces Court at Shootout Scene

ANGELA'S SISTER IN PLEA — Black revolutionary Angela Davis was brought to the Marin County Courthouse in San Francisco, Calif., from New York City, Tuesday, to face charges she supplied the guns used in a shootout that killed four persons there last August. After Angela's return, a rally, attended by some 200 persons, was held in front of the federal building where Angela's sister Fania (2nd left) addressed the crowd shouting pleas of "Free our sister." (UPI TELEPHOTO).

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Angela Davis, flown across the continent under heavy guard and secrecy, was today at the scene where four died in a shootout she is accused of helping to plot.

The black and beautiful avowed Communist, scheduled for arraignment today in Superior Court, was placed in a jail cell Tuesday under the blue-domed Marin County Civic Center, background of the killings last August.

Although not present at the shootout, she is charged with murder, kidnaping and conspiracy under state law holding accomplices equally guilty with those who actually carry out crimes.

As the steel grill jail gates clanged down behind the car carrying Miss Davis to the jail Tuesday afternoon she raised a handcuffed wrist and gave clenched-fist Black Panther salute to a group of newsmen and others nearby.

For most of the 12-hour flight, Miss Davis, 26 did not wear the handcuffs, said Evelyn Gosser, Marin County jail matron, who was one of her guards. The handcuffs were affixed as the California Air National Guard plane prepared to land at nearby Hamilton Air Force as after the nonstop transcontinental hop.

Authorities had refused to divulge in advance the plan for moving Miss Davis to California from New York.

After being booked at the jail Miss Davis was allowed to telephone her mother in Birmingham, Ala., and an attorney who was not identified, Miss Gosser said.

Miss Davis, whose hair was cut short when she was arrested in a midtown Manhattan motel Oct. 13 while on the FBI's The Most Wanted List, was wearing it in fluffy Afro style again.

For 1½ hours after her arrival, about 200 of her supporters rallied in front of the San Francisco Federal Building. Speakers included her sister, Fania Davis Jordan, 23, of Birmingham.

"Angela is innocent . . . San Quentin pigs fired into the van. They should be the ones indicted," Mrs. Jordan said. The shooting took place in a driveway outside the courthouse as a commandeered van carrying convicts tried to escape and a number of hostages was being driven away.

Killed in the melee were a judge, two San Quentin convicts who tried to escape from his courtroom, and 17-year-old Jonathan Jackson.

Judge Bans Gals From Tate Court

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three women defendants in the Sharon Tate murder trial have been banned from court permanently after a melee in which a prosecutor took a swing at one of them.

Judge Charles Older told attorneys Tuesday the three would not be readmitted until the jury reaches a verdict.

Charles Manson, 36, key figure in the six-month-old trial, also was ejected for speaking out of turn, but it was expected he would be allowed back.

The clamorous disruptions came as defendant Leslie Van Houten, 21, demanded the firing of an attorney appointed by the court to replace defense lawyer Ronald Hughes who vanished mysteriously while on a Thanksgiving weekend camping trip in a wilderness area.

The judge refused the long-haired brunette's request, and other defendants joined in levelling taunts at him.

As Deputy Dist. Atty. Vincent T. Bugliosi resumed his closing arguments after the noon recess, Miss Van Houten arose and shouted, "Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, I have a defense to put on!"

"Wait a while, wait a while, wait a while!" shouted Bugliosi, reddening. "Take the stand if you want to testify."

Shouted Miss Van Houten: "I've been trying to do that and you know it!" She was ordered out.

The prosecutor then tried to resume his recapitulation of testimony by Barbara Hoyt, a former member of Manson's hippie-style "family." Suddenly, defendant Susan Atkins, 22, arose and shouted, "Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, Barbara Hoyt is supposed to have had LSD!"

The judge ordered her out, but she scuffled with deputies, kicking and flailing her arms. As she passed Bugliosi's lectern, she grabbed some of his notes, crumpling them.

Bugliosi reached for her hand, then swung his arm at her, not connecting.

Illinois Bank Holdup--Live Coverage

SOUTH CHICAGO HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — Thousands of radio listeners heard a youthful gunman trapped in a bank blurt helplessly, "I'm surrounded . . . I'm going to take my life."

Seconds later came the barked commands of police charging into the American Savings Bank and disarming Anthony J. Yockley, 27, of New York.

The dramatic tape of a telephone conversation between Yockley and WGN radio newsman Don Harris was played over the air a few minutes after the arrest.

Harris had telephoned the bank twice on a tip received by the WGN news department. The first time there was no answer. The second time this conversation took place:

Harris—"What's going on out there?"

Yockley—"Who's this?"

Harris—"This is WGN radio."

Yockley—"This is the robber—so-called robber, I guess."

Harris—"What are you doing in there?"

Yockley—"I want to tell you honestly, I tried to make it the shortest way possible and it's the wrong way."

Harris—"What's going on now, sir?"

Yockley—"I'm surrounded and at this moment I'd like to request that I have a minister because I'm going to take my life."

Police moving in on Yockley said later that at this point he raised a pistol and pointed it at his head.

Harris—"No, don't do that. Wait a second. Are the police inside or outside?"

Yockley—"Yeah . . . Wait a second . . ."

Shouts from police rushing into the bank then were recorded over the still-open telephone: "All right, hold it right there. Freeze. Get your hands up. Get against the wall . . . Get against the wall. Start walking, you, before I blow your head off."

Police staked out the bank after Louis Dandurand, its president, reported that earlier in the morning a gunman broke into his home, tied him to a chair and took the keys to the building.

Yockley was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner James T. Balog and held in Cook County—Chicago—jail under $50,000 bond on a charge of attempted armed bank robbery.

Signs in Congress Point to a Break

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Weary senators and representatives, home for Christmas, hope the holiday spirit and a brief vacation might resolve all their problems. There was some indication the legislative logjam was breaking.

When Congress returns, it faces, in no particular order:

—A filibuster against funding of the supersonic transport plane (SST) a debate which Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called a problem "almost impossible to solve." It is considered the major bottleneck to final adjournment.

—A $66.6 billion compromise defense appropriations bill, already approved by the House, which contains language diluting a no-loophole ban against the introduction of U.S. troops into Cambodia. That ban was written into a bill already sent to the White House. The Senate will seek to reject the compromise, ask for new negotiations with the House, and try to strike the language. The House might be adamant.

—A $2.5 billion foreign aid appropriations bill compromise, rejected Tuesday by the Senate because it contains $200 million in military credit sales which have not been approved.

—A $1.8 billion supplemental appropriations bill, which includes actual funds to carry out President Nixon's aid to Cambodia, Israel, and several other nations.

—A compromise food stamp program. Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., has asked the Senate to reject the measure because it denies food stamps where the head of a family refused to take a job.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., issued a joint statement which killed all prospects for Social Security, welfare, trade, and catastrophic illness insurance legislation.

Mills and Byrnes advised senators that no matter what they do on the welfare-Social Security package, it is too late to work out a compromise with House measures.

They did not mention the trade and catastrophic illness sections but it was clear that all the provisions in the Senate package were through.

Terrorists in Rio Renew Death Threat

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The kidnapers of Swiss Ambassador Giovanni Bucher said today they will "carry out the death sentence" on him unless the government adds 13 names to the list of 51 prisoners it is willing to release as ransom.

The leftist terrorists who kidnaped Bucher on Dec. 7 originally demanded the release of 70 prisoners as ransom. The government agreed to free 51 of the prisoners but refused to release the other 19, saying some were serving terms for serious crimes, others were nearing the end of their terms, and others were relatives of prisoners released as ransom in three previous political kidnapings.

The Popular Revolutionary Vanguard, the group holding the 57-year-old ambassador, said in a communique Tuesday that it would agree to six of the governments deletions and would supply six substitutes. But it said it "will not admit a trade" for the other 13.

The deletions the kidnapers accepted included three wives of terrorists, one prisoner who did not want to leave Brazil, another terrorist known only by a code name, and a person who turned out to be at large. The terrorists said they wanted guarantees that the papal nuncio to Brazil would protect the six from any government reprisals.

Police investigating the kidnaping expelled French journalist Francois Pelou from Brazil Tuesday night after questioning him for 30 hours. The 42-year-old newsman, who works for Agence France-Presse, relayed the list of prisoners' names to Brazilian authorities and was then questioned about links with the terrorists.

The Brazilian Foreign Ministry told him his accreditation as a newsman had been withdrawn and that he had four days to leave the country. No official reason was given.

Rivers Still Called Serious

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., remained in serious condition from a heart ailment today but a University Hospital spokesman said he was slightly improved.

Rivers, 65, was alert and responsive, the spokesman said.

The congressman, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, underwent surgery Dec. 11 to replace a faulty heart valve with a plastic substitute. He suffered a brief heart stoppage Sunday.
